

Czech general defects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Wednesday the defection to the United States of Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna of Czechoslovakia, with his son and the son's fiancée.

Sejna, 40, is believed to be the highest ranking Soviet bloc officer ever to cross over to the West.

While U.S. authorities kept tight secrecy on details, there were indications that Sejna fled from Prague last week a step ahead of a purge planned by the new Czech Communist leadership.

Sejna was a member of the Czech General Staff and of the National Assembly Presidium and chief of the Communist Party Central Committee in Czechoslovakia's defense ministry.

Shortly before he disappeared from Prague Feb. 25, his committee came under political attack by the new ruling faction which replaced conservative Antonin Novotny with Alexander Dubcek as the country's Communist party leader last January.

Sejna, accompanied by his 18-year-old son, Jan, and Miss Evzenie Musilova, 22, identified as Jan's fiancée, apparently drove through Hungary and Yugoslavia to Italy.

The U.S. announcement by a State Department press officer, Robert J. McCloskey, said the three flew from Rome to the United States on Feb. 28. Their point of entry in this country was not disclosed.

Male nurse convicted of murder

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A male nurse accused of killing six people with insulin injections was convicted of first-degree murder Wednesday.

Superior Judge Adolph Alexander said "this defendant knew more about insulin than most doctors."

Small, mild-appearing William Dale Archerd, 55, was found guilty of murdering two of his seven wives and a 15-year-old nephew.

He also was accused of killing another wife and two male friends but was not formally charged in these deaths because they occurred outside Los Angeles County.

Money was the motive alleged in most of the deaths. Archerd received about $10,000 from insurance policies and estates.

Archerd was the first convicted in the United States of murder by injection of insulin—a bizarre method in which an excess of the naturally occurring hormone burns up blood sugar and sends the victim into fatal shock.

Senate moves against bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate adopted a ban on transporting Molotov cocktails and other explosives for use in riots Wednesday, but killed a second proposal which its sponsor said was aimed at Black Power militants.

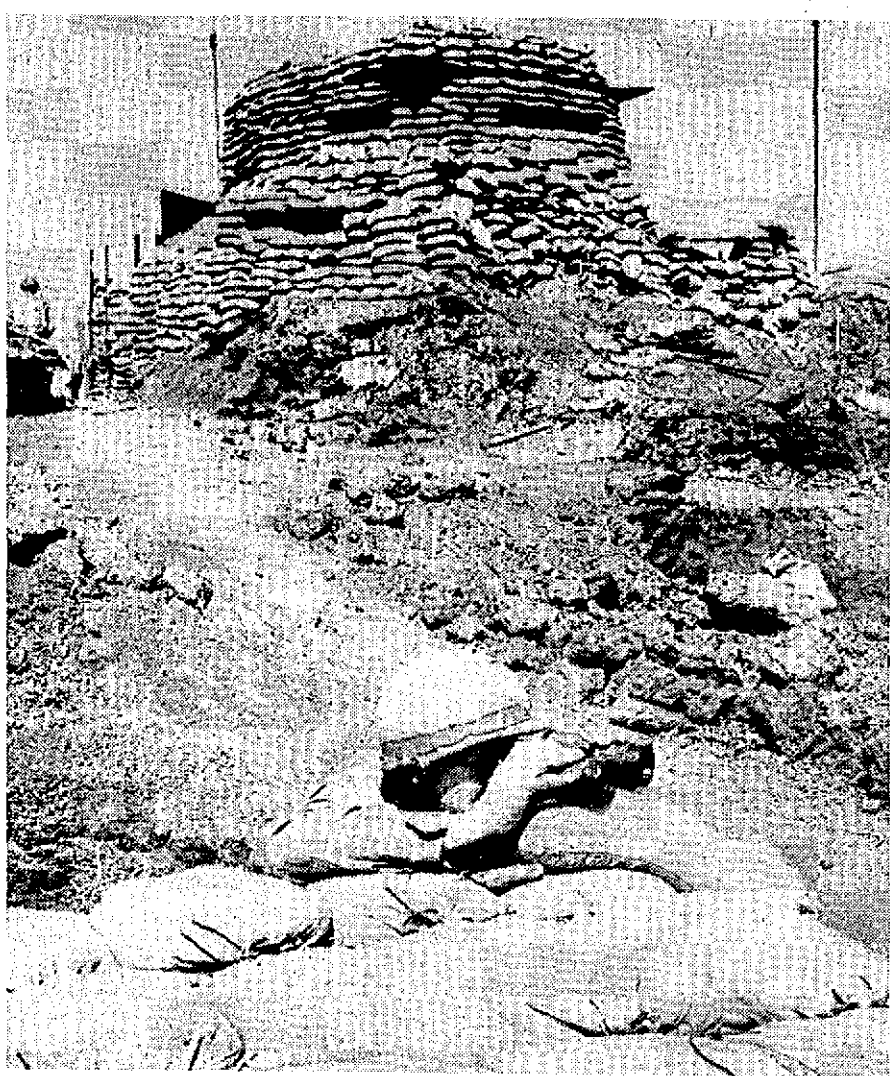

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of both proposals, urged the Senate to adopt them if, as he put it, it wants to do something about such militants as H. Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael.

Senate may investigate corruption in S. Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new investigation of corruption in the South Vietnamese government was promised Wednesday by Sen. Ernest Gruening after disclosure of U.S. adviser's reports stating "grave doubts that there is any possibility of ever achieving any reasonable degree of honesty and integrity in Vietnamese officialdom."

The Alaska Democrat, chairman of the Senate foreign aid expenditures subcommittee, said the reports show "wholesale corruption on every level."

The adviser said in reports to the U.S. mission in Saigon that the United States must initiate

Rhodesia ignores Queen; hangs three Africans

LONDON (AP) — Rhodesia's hanging of three black Africans Wednesday despite a reprieve from Queen Elizabeth II brought threats of retaliation from Britain and condemnation by the United States and other nations.

Commonwealth Secretary George Thomson told a tumultuous session of the House of Commons that Britain's attorney general, Sir Elwyn Jones, "is giving urgent consideration" to all the legal implications of the executions.

These implications, he told a Laborite questioner, Andrew Faulds, include proper retribution from those held personally responsible for the executions—government officials, judges, wardens and the hangman.

Faulds had asked if the British authorities would seek to punish—even with the death penalty—the "judges, officers of the so-called government of Rhodesia, the wardens and the hangman."

In the present state of affairs, Britain is unable to carry out such measures against Rhodesia's white regime.

The hangings were assailed by African nations and the United States at a meeting of the U.N. Human Rights Commission in New York. Morris Abram, the U.S. delegate, declared his government had no hesitation in condemning Rhodesian authorities for "this atrocity."

A spokesman for U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said he was "shocked to hear the news."

Various African nations criticized British policy toward its former colony, although Queen Elizabeth II had issued an order Saturday to commute the sentences of the three blacks to life imprisonment.

Hanged in Salisbury's central prison for murder and terrorism were Duly Shadreck, Victor Mlambo and James Dhlamini. Dhlamini and Mlambo were convicted Dec. 14, 1964 of murdering a white man and of throwing gasoline bombs into the car containing the victim's family.

Warsaw Pact conference may bring Russian opposition

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Leaders of the Warsaw Pact nations opened a summit conference Wednesday and Romanian opposition to Soviet policies was expected to produce some fireworks.

Communist sources said the two main items on the agenda are Vietnam and the Soviet-American draft of a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons, now under consideration at Geneva.

Romania assailed the treaty at the Geneva disarmament conference, saying it placed restrictions on small countries and failed to limit armaments of such major powers as the Soviet Union.

Still fresh in the minds of the Communist party and government leaders was Romania's walkout of an international meeting of Communist parties at Budapest last week after its policies and Red China's were criticized.

The meeting of leaders from Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Romania and the Soviet Union was scheduled to last two days.

bold action to stamp out corruption, "and, once having started, must continue with it."

"Vietnamese government officials are so involved that very few have hands sufficiently clean that they can make an immediate major contribution," the reports said.

He told of corruption reaching even the now-deposed director general of South Vietnam customs, Nguyen Van Loc.

Sen. Gruening said he would start new hearings in about a month. Asked if he would summon the U.S. adviser who wrote the reports, Gruening replied, "We'll do what is necessary to bring the facts out."

The monthly reports to Washington and the adviser's recommendations to the U.S. mission in Saigon were made available to The Associated Press on condition the adviser's name not be used. He is chief of a 22-man advisory team that has been working with Vietnamese government officials for four years.

At the same time the adviser offered his recommendations, he told his superiors in Washington of previous problems in winning support for get-tough proposals, and blamed "hearts and minds purists" in the U.S. mission.

Plane, 49 Marines down in Cong area

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopters hunted in darkness early Thursday for 49 Americans from a U.S. Air Force C123 transport that Communist gunfire felled in hostile territory near the besieged Marine combat base at Khe Sanh.

There was no immediate word of the fate of the men—5 Air Force crewmen and 44 passengers believed to be Marines.

Advices from Da Nang, the U.S. Marine headquarters 110 miles southeast of Khe Sanh, said the plane—a $1 million, twin-engine propeller-driven craft with two turbojet auxiliary engines—was felled by .50-caliber machine-gun bullets about five miles east of the base on a flight in "pretty good" weather Wednesday.

It was believed to have been inbound with supplies and replacements for the base, where 6,000 Marines and 500 Vietnamese rangers are ringed by the vanguard of a North Vietnamese task force estimated to total 20,000 men.

Any point in the hills around Khe Sanh would be behind the enemy's front line entrenchments, dug at some points to within 100 yards of the barbed wire perimeter.

Planes and helicopters are the lifeline for the troops at Khe Sanh, the western anchor of allied posts below the demilitarized zone. The North Vietnamese know this and the aircraft are a prime target for their rockets, mortars and machine guns.

March 1 a C123 was struck in one engine as it neared the end of the runway on its takeoff. The plane veered violently into the sandbagged bunkers along the strip, spewing flaming fuel. Everyone aboard escaped, although there were injuries among them. Several newsmen filming the crash were also injured.

Last Feb. 28, a Marine C130 Seaknight helicopter was shot down by automatic weapons fire about 11 miles northeast of Khe Sanh.

On Feb. 10, a huge Marine C130 transport loaded with eight tons of fuel was hit by Communist machine-gun fire as it was coming in for a landing. All six crewmen were killed.

Other planes and helicopters have been hit, but have managed to fly out. The carcasses of the unlucky aircraft still lie near the windswept airstrip, adding to the litter of Khe Sanh.

Across the country the Communists shelled 16 points in the third straight day of such long-range operations, but slackened off at Khe Sanh.

Marines there said they counted only 100 incoming rounds over a 24-hour period, a far cry from the massive poundings which have gone as high as 1,300 in a single day. The U.S. Command said damage and casualties there and elsewhere were light.

A senior U.S. officer said he believes Hue, the old imperial capital, rather than Khe Sanh, is the next objective of the North Vietnamese forces.

The Communists, clung longest to Hue of all the cities they attacked in their lunar new year offensive, but were ousted by U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops after a four-week battle. They were reported to have more than 10,000 men still deployed around Hue, 60 miles southeast of Khe Sanh.

21 workers trapped in deep salt mine

CALUMET, La. (AP) — Fire in the shaft trapped 21 men somewhere in the vast white caverns of a coastal salt mine Wednesday. Rescue work was stymied for hours by lack of equipment.

The last desperate word from below was: "Pull up the cage!" It was too late. Flames cut communications and burned out the elevator hoisting gear.

Firemen ferried in from Morgan City hosed water down the vertical shaft—a straight fall of 1,200 feet—the only entrance to mine levels branching off at various depths. Though steam and smoke continued to rise from the Cargill mine for hours afterward, the water apparently doused the fire.

Rescue teams and self-contained breathing apparatus, similar to scuba diving gear, were ordered down in.

The mine, operated by Cargill, Inc., of Minneapolis, Minn., is located at Belle Isle, a bump of low hill surrounded by swamp and water. It is accessible only by boat and plane.

Officials said there wasn't much flammable material in the mine tunnels but timbers and plywood brace the shaft at seven-foot intervals.

"I think the men will make it," said Arthur Olivier, foreman of the day shift. "They have 11 oxygen bottles down there. The mine is so big they could have possibly escaped the fire."

What caused the fire? "There is lots of guessing but we have no idea and we may never know," said T. J. McKee, a Cargill official.

Nixon proposes draft end

LITTLETON, N.H. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday when the war in Vietnam is over the United States should end the military draft and turn to an all-volunteer army.

He proposed creation of a new civilian "nation-building team" to aid guerrilla-threatened countries.

"Once we can end this war, it means that we can remove from hanging over our young people the draft," Nixon told some 400 people in a Littleton hotel.

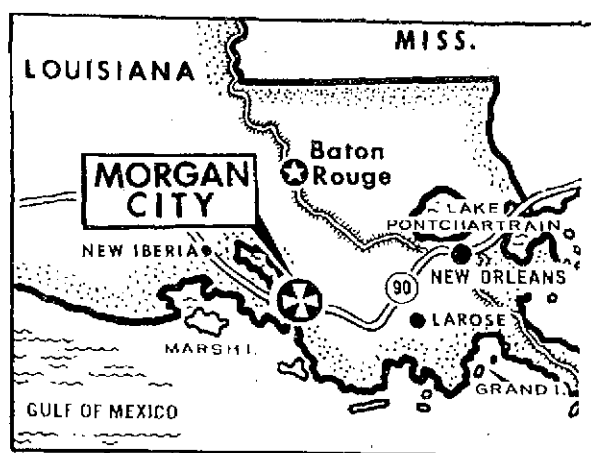

"I believe that we should have and we can have a much more effective military and economic and certainly diplomatic policy if we have what I call volunteer armed services, pay them on a basis that is competitive, draw them into our armed services, and have a highly trained professional group," Nixon said.

Johnson to avoid primaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will not voluntarily enter any political primaries this year, it was learned Wednesday.

This decision was among several factors prompting the President's associates to keep his name out of a Massachusetts primary contest with Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., a reliable source said.

The President's political advisers agreed that he "should and will not become involved in any primary except those where he must take positive action to stay out," the source told The Associated Press.

there that could have hit a pocket of gas—but that is strictly conjecture."

"I have no idea when we can get to them," Tonnemaker added wearily, 15 hours after fire erupted. "It depends on how bad the damage is. There might well be some obstruction which has to be cleared out first."

A new "man cage," a sort of elevator, was built at the top of the shaft. Plans were to lower it down the shaft, which is a circular hole about 16 feet in diameter. Rescue workers could ride it down to the mine levels below.

The mine is about 120 miles northwest of New Orleans.

Teachers fined $25 for picketing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A judge got tougher Wednesday and fined 42 pickets $25 apiece for defying his ban against picketing of schools during the Pittsburgh teachers' strike.

Judge John Hester, who had freed 16 pickets with a reprimand Tuesday, slapped the fines on 41 striking teachers and one Carnegie-Mellon University student and gave them 10 days to pay. He had the power to jail them.

McCarthy claims state delegates

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., has clinched more than one-fourth of Minnesota's delegation to the Democratic National Convention and his supporters are talking of winning even more.

McCarthy supporters, rallying around his opposition to the Vietnam war, turned out in record numbers Tuesday night to control hundreds of Democratic precinct caucuses.

Deputy sheriffs had arrested the pickets earlier in the day. They were only a small part of the hundreds who ignored court orders by picketing the city's 24 junior and senior highs and many of the 88 grade schools. But the sheriff's office said most pickets quietly disbanded when deputies arrived.

While the judge was levying the fines in the City-County Building in downtown Pittsburgh, an estimated 400 teachers formed outside and marched around the building.

A spokesman for the striking Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers, which represents 1,000 of the city's 3,000 teachers, said they were demonstrating for the support of the mayor and city council in the dispute with the school board.

Mayor Joseph M. Barr said later that he would try to meet with representatives of the school board and teachers' union "to see if there is anything I can do."

School officials said the city's 112 schools were still holding classes.

Giggly Twiggy turns to movies

LONDON (AP) — Twiggy, sick of lookin' giggly, has decided to shuck the modelling stance she created, put on a new face and figure, and have a real slam at movies.

The 18-year-old London cockney said Wednesday: "I got a bit fed up with it, really."

"I'm just sick of lookin' kinda young and pigeon-toed and giggly," she explained as she lolled in maxicollottes and 'thirties make-up in the new London studio-apartment of her manager and boyfriend, Justin de Villeneuve.

In their first interview for many months, Justin declared solemnly: "Twiggy is going to break out as the biggest thing ever after her first movie, 'The Wishing Tree'."

"She doesn't see herself as an actress," Justin chuckled, "but she's a natural. She really projects. Everybody's enthusiastic after the first tests."

The new Twiggy certainly looks different. For one thing, she's growing her hair long for the Beatles-backed movie, based on a fairy tale by William Faulkner.

Twiggy, who declared last year that she would never go in for acting, told how she came to change her mind.

"It was when we got back from Japan. One morning Justin said, 'I'm gonna call up the Beatles and get them to back a film of a fairy story starring you.' I just said, 'Aw, come off it!' I thought it was a joke, see. But he really did it."

"I play this little girl, Dulcie," Twiggy explained. "Well, her age is uncertain. She may be 12 or 20. Anyway, it's her birthday night, and it's all a dream she's having. She thinks she wakes up and sees this dream boy, Morris, in a black velvet suit, red knee-socks, and carrying a magic satchel. They set off, with her colored nanny, Alice, to find the wishing tree."

"It's an enchanting story, and it'll be a classic for kids," Justin broke in. "There's too much violence and sex about, and this is something the mums can approve of, but it's not corny either."

Hue leaves officials wondering

HUE, Vietnam (AP) — Looking at the wreckage of what was once a city of legendary beauty, Americans and Vietnamese alike display a fury born of frustration. Some suggest that what happened here challenged the whole philosophy of U.S. aid to South Vietnam.

"How could the Communists invest this city without anybody in authority knowing about it?" one American demanded. "In any other country, if a thing like this happened, the defense minister would have to resign. And why hasn't the province chief been court-martialed?"

Hue, involved in almost four weeks of fighting, looks like a city which has bled to death. The vista of ruin and human misery here—as in some other cities hit by the lunar new year offensive—is provoking many an American to agonizing reappraisal.

"In the past 30 days," said one official, "we have been given reason to wonder whether the South Vietnamese government has what it takes to make a nation of this country, no matter what support it gets."

One official, a long time in Hue, said that the South Vietnamese leaders here who lacked awareness of Communist designs would be taking charge all over again.

"They let the Communists come in and invest this city without a shot being fired, and now they'll be coming back," he said. "They can be rich next year from controlling the input of U.S. money and commodities."

One American said the Hue situation called for re-examination of the agreement between the United States and South Vietnam. Some South Vietnamese in responsible places agree, admitting that the system of distribution of U.S. commodities is faulty.

Under the basic agreement, the American said, title to commodities passes to the Saigon officials as soon as the goods hit Vietnamese soil. Americans have audit privileges, but the way records are kept it is virtually impossible in some cases to make head or tail of them, he said, adding that men on the scene in Vietnam know of "criminal misuse" of U.S. commodities.

FAA sees hypersonic air travel

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Federal Aviation Administration official predicted Wednesday the SST, supersonic transport, program will be a forerunner of a whole system of hypersonic airplanes.

Maj. Gen. J. C. Maxwell, head of the FAA's Supersonic Transport development program, said many persons "fail to comprehend the real meaning of the SST program. It sounds as if we are about to create one airplane to end all airplanes, to serve all markets, to be everything to everybody, from this day forward."

But, he said, "what the SST program represents is opening the door of commercial supersonic flight. Beyond this first step, I can visualize a whole family of supersonic aircraft designed for different markets."

"If hypersonic flight is ever to become a reality, supersonic flight must come first, and now is the time."

Maxwell's remarks were in an address prepared for the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

One roadblock in development of the SST, Maxwell said, was the fear of the sonic boom it may create.

He said there are persons who would halt SST progress because they fear the boom, even if all flights are over water, far away from populated areas. He said if the supersonic transport is used only for over the water, it will still be economically attractive.

"The world is three-quarters covered by water," he added.

Millionaire's wife victim

63 die in plane crash

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP) — Rescue crews found the scorched silver fuselage of Air France's newest Boeing 707 jet imbedded in the slopes of a dormant volcano Wednesday and reported no survivors among the 63 persons on board, including the wife of real estate millionaire William Zeckendorf.

The $8-million craft, put into service Jan. 26, plunged Tuesday night into Matouba Mountain, a lower peak of the 3,937-foot La Soufriere volcano on Basse-Terre, one of the two main islands which make up this French West Indies territory. Witnesses said a bright flash and an ear-splitting explosion followed impact.

Search teams, guided by French soldiers and helicopters of the Gendarmerie Nationale, cut through thick jungle to reach the crash site. They found sheared metal, scattered clothing and dismembered bodies.

The crash occurred as the jet headed over Basse-Terre on its approach pattern for Pointe-a-Pitre's Le Raizet Airport. A resident of the nearby village of St. Claude told reporters the plane seemed on course, but "it was coming in at an extremely low altitude. I heard it explode like a bomb."

Investigators from the French Ministry of Transport were on the scene, but there was no word as to the cause of the crash. "It just disappeared from our radar screens," an airport administration official said.

En route from Santiago, Chile, to Paris, Flight 212 had left Caracas, Venezuela, at 8:27 p.m., after stops in Lima, Peru, and Quito, Ecuador, and was due in Guadeloupe, Air France's main servicing area in the Caribbean, 55 minutes later. Officials said the crash occurred at 7:29 p.m., EST.

The weather was clear and there had been no emergency messages from the pilot, Capt. Pierre Vialde.

Aboard were 49 passengers, 11 crew members and 3 off-duty Air France pilots being flown to new posts in the French Caribbean.

Mrs. Zeckendorf, who was vacationing in Lima, had planned to meet her husband in Guadeloupe, then fly to the island of St. Lucia Wednesday.

Pike County Grand Jury opens in Milford today

MILFORD — The Pike County Grand Jury, totalling 24 persons, will meet at 9:30 a.m. today in the Pike County Courthouse.

Westfall budget adopted

MATAMORAS — An accumulative budget totalling $15,198 with no increase in the tax rate, was adopted by the Westfall Township Supervisors at their regular meeting 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The general government budget totals $21,600 and the highway budget is $14,198.

Supervisors retained the 10 mill tax rate.

Of the estimated $21,000 in receipts, the township anticipates receiving $15,000 from taxes. Of the estimated $21,000 expenditures, the township estimates receipts of $9,348 from the State Highway Fund account.

An additional $4,850 for highways was appropriated from the township fund. Other township expenditures are the same as last year.

In other action, supervisors swore in the fire police.

State aid for sewage suggested

MILFORD — Financial assistance from the state to permit homeowners to construct central package sewer systems was suggested by East Stroudsburg attorney Edwin Krawitz to alleviate possible pollution problems in subdivisions.

Krawitz, Republican candidate for the 19th State Rep. District, made the statement following a mass meeting Saturday in the Delaware Valley High School. The meeting, called by Pike County Commissioners, was designed to aid townships in the adoption of subdivision regulations.

"Their discussion about the problem that they have with new developments and particularly the sewage problem that exists concerns me. In developments where lots are less than one quarter acre, the sewage problem may become critical when all the lots are sold," Krawitz said.

"It would appear that the legislature could assist the homeowner and thereby the developer with low cost secondary financing to permit the construction of a central package sewer system at the outset," he suggested.

He explained that payment could be made back to the state when the owner completes his mortgage closing.

"This is just another example of the great need of the people in our locale for help of the Legislature in Harrisburg. Their needs have not been served, otherwise this might not be a problem today," he said.

Borough council seeks permit

PORTLAND — Portland Borough Council last night agreed to submit a request to the State Department of Health for the department to issue a permanent permit for the use of the Stoddard quarry as the borough's water supply.

Council also adopted revised rules and regulations for the borough's water department.

Council noted it will ask the state Department of Highways to submit its plans for improvements to Route 611 on the area of Portland.

DV School Board meets tonight

MILFORD — The Delaware Valley School District Board of Education will meet in special session 7:30 p.m. tonight to open bids on a typewriter accounting machine.

The School District is purchasing a Burroughs accounting machine. No other business is scheduled before the board at the bid opening.

The board's next regular meeting will be 7:30 p.m. March 14.

Hal H. Harris colorful politician

Monroe County has lost its most colorful political figure in history.

Hal H. Harris is dead.

The six-time Burgess of Stroudsburg died at age 80 on Monday and a political career that may never be matched in this area came to a close.

"Now listen sonny" and "I'll tell you, boy" were expressions made famous in Stroudsburg by the transplanted North Carolinian as he held court on the various street corners of the borough.

Harris came out of the University of North Carolina and arrived in Stroudsburg as an outstanding baseball player. He stayed to write a story of politics and government that will probably never be matched.

However, he never lost his love for the game of baseball and it was he who played a major role in bringing professional baseball to Gordon Giffels Field, which has since given way to expansion at Stroudsburg High.

No baseball game at Giffels Field was complete without Hal seated behind home plate, yelling at a young and controllable pitcher, "What's the matter out there. Get that ball across the plate."

The former manager of the Indian Queen Hotel, which has since been replaced by the main offices of the Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co., was truly an expert on politics and baseball and would speak on his favorite subjects for hours and at any location.

Harris not only knew his subjects well, but also knew personally many of the top politicians and baseball players of the day. He knew about those with whom he didn't have personal contact.

The often-time Burgess of Stroudsburg had an outstanding memory and could recall dates and occurrences without the slightest difficulty.

His booming voice is still and his controversial street-corner discussions are gone, but the echoes will never really be silenced.

Stroudsburg's sewage disposal plant and street program will always be a monument to Hal H. Harris.

Peace? Freedom?

What has happened to our presidential elections?

Can you remember when what was thought to be the two best men in the United States ran head-to-head while carrying the Republican and Democratic banners?

True, there were minority parties then also, but so lightly considered that they were known in name only.

Now anybody can become a presidential candidate by simply obtaining 10,551 names on a petition in Pennsylvania. Ability, attitude and ambition are suddenly forgotten arts.

It became apparent this week that Dick Gregory, formerly known as a comedian, wasn't joking when he announced that he was a presidential candidate. One of those announcements was made during a recent speaking engagement at East Stroudsburg State College.

Gregory, who becomes less funny and more alarming each day, has, according to still another announcement, become the front runner on a ticket which includes pacifist-baby doctor Benjamin Spock as vice president.

This ticket will be known as the Peace and Freedom Party.

Isn't it difficult to understand how the party got its name after listening to Gregory—who sees nothing wrong with the violent actions of the Negro leaders in the United States?

He opposes violence in Vietnam, but not in the United States.

Spock opposes violence, except that which grows from demonstrations he leads or in those which he takes part.

Peace and freedom—maybe the definition of these two words has been changed.

With Gene Brown

A tramp on a sunny afternoon chose the green at the 18th hole on a golf course as the fitting place for a nap.

A foursome approached the green and found the vagrant asleep there.

One of the golfers came up, shook the sleeping man and shouted, "Get off this golf course! You can't sleep here."

The tramp was drowsy and did not respond readily, so the golfer kicked him violently and said, "Get out of here! I'm the chairman of the membership committee and I'll have you know you can't loaf on this course."

The tramp rubbed his bruises, rose slowly and said, "So you're the chairman of the membership committee?"

"Well, all I got to say," drawled the tramp, "is this is a heck of a way to get new members."

"There was an old woman who lived in a shoe. She had so many children her welfare check came to $4,892."

Meteorologist needed

NEW YORK — It takes more than political savvy to comprehend the winds of change in the Republican Party. It takes a good meteorologist.

Dick Nixon went to the 1964 GOP Convention in San Francisco as pretty much of a spectator. Four years before that the party had thunderously dubbed him Sir Richard and confidently sent him forth to demolish the then lesser-known Sen. John F. Kennedy. Despite an amateurishly operated campaign, he lost by only a whisker.

In 1962 Nixon — against his better judgment — ran for governor of California and was resoundingly beaten. For reasons never fully comprehended, he devoted much of his campaigning to orating on foreign affairs. Californians, circa 1962, could not have cared less about the situation in the Balkans (under-box). They wanted to know about California water, roads, relief, schools, integration, etc. Pat Brown gave them what they wanted, and he was a shoo-in.

Stateless person

So back to 1964, by which time Nixon had become a stateless person. In an interview in his law office in the Wall Street area he said that two of the delegates to the impending convention had told him they would insist on nominating him. (Both later backed out.) He added that he was just going to San Francisco to look around. He had no plans to speak. Sen. Barry Goldwater would get the nomination on the first ballot, he predicted, because everybody there who disliked something, or somebody, felt that Goldwater shared their bile.

It was clearly the end of Nixon's political road. He would settle down and make some real money for himself and his family for the first time. He was forgotten, and relieved.

Nelson Rockefeller led the New York delegation to that convention, tried to speak for the convention's moderates, and was howled down in an angry demonstration. It set some sort of convention record for bad manners.

Magic in sea water

WASHINGTON — There's no question about it, somewhere I made the wrong turn. Instead of grinding out magnificent columns for a pittance, I should have gone into the business of selling things to the Agency for International Development.

But, even as there is a point in the life of an old crook, when it seems too late for him to go straight, there must be a time in the life of an average man when it is too late for him to do anything but look wistfully at all the lost opportunities to deal with AID.

First off, one must tip his hat to the promoters who got AID to spring for $24,000 for plain old sea water. AID admits buying something called "l'eau de mer" (French for "sea water") as a cure-all for everything from arthritis and eczema to baldness and lack of virility.

AID distributed this wonderful product to natives in South Vietnam and paid $1.10 each for vials containing one-third ounce. Now, for all I know, sea water is the most marvelous cure on earth, but I should think it could be had for less than $442.40 per gallon!

Accurate description

Nevertheless, the promoters of it can hardly be blamed, since AID bought the sea water despite the fact that a brochure accompanying it described it accurately: "100 percent ocean water drawn from the sandy bottom of the open sea at 10 meters in calm weather."

So, there is no question of trickery here. But I should think that putting something over on an outfit as stupid as AID would take some of the fun out of the game. For instance, one might bottle plain air, "collected in the clear, blue sky of Pennsylvania," label it accurately, and STILL sell it to AID as a medically-proven cure for respiratory ailments.

And there are many opportunities in the

Well, as of last weekend, Nixon is back and so is Rocky. One or the other is going to get the bid. If you had offered to bet on that four years ago you could have asked for, and gotten, odds of a thousand to one.

I'm trying to get down a bet on Bill Miller for the '72 nomination.

There are hawks and doves on the question of how to handle the Long Hot Summer, too.

Certain cities are building up their anti-riot arsenals to a point where they have become as armed camps preparing for an enemy invasion, stockades getting ready for geronimo's charge. An Associated Press survey reveals that Monroe County, hard by Detroit, scene of mass burning, looting and killing last year, has bought an armored car 100 rifles, 15,000 rounds of ammunition and flak jackets.

Armored cars

Detroit itself deployed five armored cars in last year's rebellion, which claimed 43 lives. It will beef up its armor with special anti-sniper rifles, 500 carbines, 300 shotguns and 150,000 rounds of ammunition.

Chicago has a new fleet of armed helicopters which the Marines at Khe Sanh wish they had. A firm on the west coast offers an armored anti-riot personnel carrier the size of a tank. It can flatten any passenger car that gets in its way, and spray the survivors, if any, with tear gas.

All of this war-like preparation goes on against the background of the report of the President's Commission on white-black relations. The report says that such preparations kindle the kind of resentment which encourages the Negro to riot; that if the money were spent to eradicate rats and remove other causes of despair and desperation, we'd all be better off.

Like the hawks and doves winging around the war in Vietnam, the hawks and doves of the crises in our cities never get together.

What this country needs is a new species of partisan: a crossbreeding called a Dawk.

supply of machinery to AID. Where else, I ask, can you sell machines which do not necessarily have to work? Since AID often fails to use the machines it buys, it really isn't important whether they work or not.

Eighteen crates of equipment, bound for Paraguay under an AID agreement, sat on a dock in Buenos Aires for nine years! Sixteen tons of stuff sent by AID to Pakistan in 1955 were found recently still on the dock in Weehawken, N.J.

In a moment of candor, AID officials recently confessed that the agency has made some mistakes. But, they added, it hopes to prevent them in the future. What a shame! AID's procurement division in the past has proved to be an important outlet for unusual and, sometimes, unusable products.

If we really wanted to learn who our friends are, we should start asking other countries for loans.

Despite its violence, hardly anyone is talking about the Israeli-Egyptian war any longer. That's because Israel got it over with in a hurry—by winning.

About the only candidate Sen. Eugene McCarthy really hopes to beat in New Hampshire is Harold Stassen. And even that would be an upset.

So far this year, Congress has failed to do much of anything. But pretty soon our luck is bound to run out.

One can almost envy Bobby Kennedy. At least he never has to make political conversation with a barber.

The Allen-Scott Report

U.S. cracks down on France's debt

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — France's 35-year-long default of around seven billion dollars in World War I debts is finally going to get high-powered congressional attention.

The powerful House Ways and Means Committee will shortly hold hearings on the matter.

Representative Wilbur Mills, D - Ark., chairman, has given this assurance to Representative Vernon Thomson, R - Wis., sponsor of a resolution calling for forceful action to require payment of the long-overdue obligation. Thomson initially introduced his resolution in June 1966.

Recently, the former Wisconsin governor wrote Mills vigorously urging consideration of the proposal. It was in response to this that Mills informed Thomson he has decided to hold hearings preparatory to bringing the issue before the full House for a record vote.

Notable victory

Mills' decision is a notable victory for Thomson and a far-reaching breakthrough on this long-pending question.

In the past several years, as President de Gaulle has displayed increasing enmity toward the United States, demand has intensified in and out of Congress that stern measures be taken to compel payment of the huge World War I debts. This has been persistently opposed by the State Department.

Now on the basis of Mills' word to Thomson the influential Ways and Means chairman is set to disregard the State Department and press for a crackdown on France.

"This is extremely gratifying," said Thomson, "and long overdue. It is certain to be widely acclaimed by members of the House and the public at large. I have told Chairman Mills I will testify at the hearings in full confidence that both his committee and the House as a whole will overwhelmingly approve a resolution calling for prompt and forceful action to secure payment of this long-defaulted French debt."

What is proposed

Crux of Representative Thomson's joint resolution is as follows:

"That it is the sense of Congress that the President should take such steps as may be necessary to require the Republic of France to make full and prompt settlement with respect to past due amounts (including principal and interest) of its World War I indebtedness to the United States. It is further the sense of Congress that the President should take such additional steps as may be necessary to assure that the Republic of France will make full and timely settlement of future installments due with respect to such indebtedness."

In his letter to Mills urging action, Thomson stressed two points: that the U.S. gave France more than seven billion dollars in economic and military aid following World War II; in recent years France has "raided" the U.S. gold reserve of more than $2.5 billion.

Grows rich

"France has grown rich and prosperous from the stimulus of $7,472,000,000 in U.S. economic and military aid since 1946," Thomson pointed out. "Meanwhile, she refuses to make payments on her delinquent principal and interest owing this country from World War I."

"Since 1962 France has withdrawn more than $2.5 billion in gold, and that policy continues unabated. To save American taxpayers the onerous burden of more grievous taxes, the time has come to collect from De Gaulle who has embarked upon a deliberate program to destroy our gold reserves and undermine the value of our dollar. As you know, I have been joined by many others who are now clamoring for action on my resolution."

In response to this letter Leo Irwin, chief counsel of the committee, advised Thomson, "The staff has been instructed to request appropriate departmental reports (from the Treasury and State Departments) on your resolution."

It is a foregone conclusion the House will overwhelmingly approve a crackdown on De Gaulle on the World War I debt issue.

Not only is the haughty French ruler widely unpopular in the chamber, but the fact that this is an election year also will play a decisive role in ensuring a massive favorable vote.

Do you remember?

Barrett -- 50 years ago

Did you ever wonder who was running Monroe County 50 years ago? Do you recall township officers and school teachers who held office during the school year of 1917-1918?

For those residents of Monroe County who recall this era in our growth and for regional history students, we will begin a series of articles today dealing with Monroe County's government of a half century ago.

Information for this series has been compiled by Mrs. Raymond M. Andrews, of Kresgeville, from a teachers' institute program of 1917-1918.

Frank Koehler, father of Dr. Leifoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, was Monroe County Superintendent of Schools at this time.

Barrett Township is the first area to be covered today.

Value of fluoride

Is the value of fluoride, as a preventative, against dental decay, still a matter of debate and confusion?

Almost every new scientific discovery has its own protagonists and antagonists. Vaccines against diphtheria, at the turn of the century, had as many detractors as did the discovery of the polio vaccine. So it is with the use of any new drug or new concept in medicine. Even penicillin had its biased skeptics. Cortisone has its own group of dissenters.

Why should fluoride be any different? When it was suggested that fluoride would arbitrarily be put in the water reservoir of many cities the hue and cry was great that this would be a violation of national, international and constitutional rights. We'll leave the political implications to others.

This dogmatic fact can be stated and restated that the advantages of fluoridation, as a preventative against dental decay, is now accepted by medical and dental associations.

In Newburgh, New York, the result of fluoridation has been spectacular. It is estimated that there has been a reduction of about 80 percent of the number of missing teeth in children.

The scientific statistics appear definite and undeniable.

The fears that fluoride in water might be dangerous, over a long period of time, does not seem to have any real basis in fact. Certainly, the occasional disadvantage is more than compensated by the dental health of the community.

A complaint that fluoride might have caused some mottling of the tooth enamel did arise. So rarely did it happen that it would be in error to sacrifice the dental health of many children because of this rare occurrence.

Why do some people bruise so easily and develop ugly black and blue marks?

Black and blue marks under the skin are not nearly as pretty and attractive as their medical name, ecchymosis. They are all caused by leakage of blood from a broken blood vessel. The blood vessel may be a tiny one just underneath the surface of the skin, or it may lie more deeply and may bleed because of more severe injury.

People with fair skin, especially those with an extra layer of soft fat, seem to be bluish rather easily. The combination of fair skin, blonde hair and blue eyes seem to bruise more easily than others.

Only rarely is there an important medical reason. In some individuals the blood vessels and capillaries seem to be more fragile and break with the slightest touch.

This capillary fragility may have no important blood disorder to produce it.

There are some types of anemia and, of course, hemophilia, the "bleeders" disease of royalty, that are responsible for bleeding almost without provocation.

The resistance of some people to physical injury is as difficult to explain as is the resistance of others to emotional disturbances.

Wearing the pants

Dear Ann Landers: I work in the haberdashery department on the main floor of a well-known men's store in Chicago. Every day I see dozens of women shopping with their husbands. What is this country coming to when a man can't even pick out a suit by himself? Since you are so frank and forthright when it comes to other people's problems, let's see if you can take it as well as I do it out, Ann Landers. I have seen you in the store with your husband twice in the last six months. Isn't the guy capable of selecting a suit without you? I bet this is one letter that will never get published.

match for him. Before I knew it I had lost the argument and I ended up losing something else I had no business losing. Now I see all the things I did wrong but it's too late. The damage is done. For those of you out there who are still virgins, I hope you will remember this letter and think of me when some groovy character tries to take over.

CELESTE
Dear Celeste: Thanks for your letter. And now I'd like to make a suggestion to the girls for whom it is not too late. Clip this column and put it in your compact. When some 8-handed idiot gets out of line and you find yourself on the defensive, pull this column out and read it to him. He will probably fall down laughing but it will interrupt his flow of fancy oratory, at which time you can change the subject.

STROUT SALES LEADER

Dear Ann Landers: Please let me be you for a few minutes. I am a 16-year-old girl who has something important to say. I wish someone had told me last year what I am about to tell all the girls in America right now.

Girls: Don't let a guy move in on you as if you owed him exploring privileges just because he asked you out for an evening. The time to put a fellow in his place is at the very beginning — before he makes too many gains. The further he goes the more trouble you are going to have with him. I was one of those dumb bunnies who thought I had to give reasons why a date had to keep his hands to himself.

One thing I learned too late is this: You should never get into an argument over it. This is what sunk me. The guy was a fast talker and I was no

Dance speaks own language at AAUW program meeting

STROUDSBURG — Initiated into the mysteries of modern dance, members of the American Association of University Women could see it in a reflection of democracy itself in its emphasis on the individual and freedom of expression.

Mary Jane Wolbers, associate professor of health and education at East Stroudsburg State College, presented the program "The Dance As A Reflection of Society," using words, books, students and a film to illustrate her points.

She was assisted in her presentation by Mrs. Warren Miller, Mrs. David Mazer and Mrs. J. L. Cohen and by three students. The contrast between the use of the hands in the classic, formalized ballet and in contemporary dance was illustrated by Sue Morris, a student at the college and a member of the Contemporary Dance Club.

The role of improvisation and choreography was illustrated by Vivian Wolbers with an improvisation to "Sarabande." Such improvisation must come from the student, Mrs. Wolbers explained, with the choreographer's part to observe and suggest not to set the spirit.

After the improvisation is perfected and the steps set, the dancer then must learn it and practice to perfect it, she added.

Notations of dances, which, like notes on a staff of music, preserve choreography, were shown.

Vivian Wolbers also illustrated a dance without music with the audience challenged to conceive of the music to which it should be performed. Mrs. Wolbers explained the role of music in the dance which it may support and emphasize or, if tension is to be emphasized, contrast with the movement.

Zonia Sulewski, also a student at the college, illustrated a character study in dance, and, with Sue Morris, presented a pattern of movement, an abstraction, to electronic sounds.

Mrs. Wolbers also discussed the interaction of ethnic dances, the role of dance in therapy, and its use in drama, opera, and church.

Modern dance, she pointed out, puts less emphasis on technical excellence: "The test of a good dancer is not how many times she can turn without falling, but why she turns at all," she said.

Also stressed was the interaction between dancer and audience, each of whom must react in his own way.

A film, "The Language of Dance," performed by the Jose Limon Dance Company, translated into movement the words of "There is a time to be born."

Mrs. Wolbers was introduced by Mrs. Earl Willhoite.

Dr. Mary Pickard presided at the business meeting when announcement was made at the Pennsylvania Division Convention to be held April 18-20 at State College, and a UN Seminar to be held at the United Nations in New York May 27 and 28.

Mrs. Douglas Danfelt, legislative chairman, gave a brief review of the two-volume study "Challenge of Crime in a Free Society," playing the contrasting roles of young criminal and city police. "Each individual, on his own behalf, must seek information, express his own opinions — get involved," she quoted.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Richard Price and her committee from a table decorated with blarney stone leprechaun and shamrocks.

Scout Thinking Day turns to Colombia

SCIOTA — Miss Luz Patricia Guevara was a guest of Junior Troop 348, Girl Scouts, on Girl Scout Thinking Day. She talked about her native Bogota, Colombia, South America.

The climate of Bogota, very near the equator, is very different, she said, telling of her first sight of snow in Brodheadville. The language of Colombia is Spanish and the chief export is coffee, she said. With fresh fruit and vegetables always available, frozen foods are non-existent.

Travel is mostly by rail, boat or airplane, she said, explaining that the roads were not equipped for mass automotive travel.

She answered questions from the girls and taught them a Colombian dance. As a memento of her visit, she gave the troop a record to dance to.

The girls of Troop 348 will participate in the Girl Scout Sunday program at Koehler Field House at East Stroudsburg State College on March 10 and their Juliette Lowe Representative, June Hennes, will represent Colombia.

Ideas for her costume came from Miss Guevara, who explained that native costumes are worn only to festivals, with street clothes the ordinary wear except for school where girls wear uniforms.

The troop spent the Monday school recess going out for lunch and to the Pocono Ice-rama for skating. They plan a camping trip later in the spring.

Home on leave

KRESGEVILLE — Pvt. Levi Berger and Pvt. David Bartholomew are spending brief leaves with their respective parents prior to overseas assignments.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory peau laffeta and peau de ange lace with an empire bodice with a bateau neckline and long sleeves and modified A-line skirt. The chapel length train formed a full trapeze back with a deep border of lace. She wore a matching lace bonnet shaped hat with fingertip bouffant veil of imported illusion.

Mrs. Wanda Lininger was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of gold crepe in an empire sheath with a floor-length mandarin coat of

A reception was held at the Bangor Elks Club.

After a wedding trip to New York they are at home at 710 Pen Argyl St., Pen Artyl. The bride, a graduate of Pen Argyl Area High School and Jefferson Medical College Hospital School of Nursing, Philadelphia is employed at the General Hospital of Monroe County in East Stroudsburg.

Her husband, a graduate of Bangor Area High School, is employed by Emerald Slate Co., Wind Gap.

Dr. Appel to speak on Korea

STROUDSBURG — Dr. John Appel, director of the liberal arts program at East Stroudsburg State College, and professor of history will speak on "American Foreign Policy and Korean Nationalism" at the March meeting of the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs on Monday at 1:30 at the Stroud Community House.

At the executive board meeting this week with Mrs. William Mitchell presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Henry Surrey, plans were announced for the annual Spring card party to be held Wednesday, April 24 at 12:30 and for the Wyckoff Fashion Show on April 23 with Mrs. David Katz as chairman of tickets.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

With so many women having their kitchens carpeted, it seemed a good idea to take a good look at carpets. Actually, I can remember a kitchen tour sponsored by a group in the mountains years ago, and the impression made on me by Mrs. Leles wall to wall carpeting in her kitchen.

Very practical, she assured us. Practical enough to let her Scout troop do their cooking projects in it. I'll grant you the Girl Scouts — even with a taffy pull in mind — but I still can't see me cooking over carpet.

A carpet, I should think, would require one of those television housewives in ruffled aprons and immaculate hair-dos daintily using their dainty appliances. Not the housewives in those tension-reliever ads with things spilling, breaking and running over.

Some how I relate more to the second type. For instance, there's my morning sneezes which overtake me just when I'm crossing the room with a bowl of hot — and sloppy — oatmeal. Or the spoon that somehow seems to get under the water from the faucet at such an angle that the stream is diverted into a fountain type arrangement.

Why, I'm not even safe to have around with a cooking pouch. Having efficiently snipped off the end, I start spraying it around like a garden hose when the package turns out to be much hotter than I'd expected. Carpeted kitchens are for ladies, I'm afraid.

Carpets are covering everything

NEW YORK (AP) — One day the question might be whether to use the same indoor carpet outdoors or a favorite outdoor carpet indoors.

Wall-to-wall concrete and wall-to-wall lawns could disappear under the covering of carpet. It should not miss. It has rolled out of the house, over porch and patio, down to the swimming pool and is headed for crabgrass and driveways.

It is in heavily trafficked areas—schools, factories, supermarkets, airports, railroad stations.

Manufacturers have been buoyed by the success of commercial installations and have gone into vivid colors and patterns for residential use. These happy choices are finding their way into family rooms, play rooms and dens.

These are synthetic carpets with a dense pile and tufted carpets. They are practically indestructible, say the manufacturers.

Outdoor-indoor carpets have gone from the uniformity of appearance enjoyed on boat deck and pool side to interesting brick-patterned tufted nylon carpets (Callaway). And to wrought iron, mosaic and brick motif in ozie (with Vectra, the olefin fiber).

Another kind of outdoor-indoor carpet offers a flat needle punched look (Ludlow) that results from long time experiments with acrylic blends. There is a pink-speckled blue that resembles heather.

Carpet the kitchen ideas are accelerating. A printed carpet (Barwick Mills) is backed by a high density foam rubber and a new woven printed carpet has been introduced. (Viking).

They suggest that any damaged portion of a carpet may be removed by the home handyman with a cookie cutter and a new piece inserted. For minimum maintenance, they have introduced a matching baseboard carpeting.

Floor covering designers have been inspired to do the unusual for indoor use, Dorothy Liebes' folk art "motto" rugs (Bigelow-Sanford) combine the look of early American samplers and an Oriental fashion of symbol-style lettering—love, truth, peace, hope—in the manner of old-Persian carpets with hidden Arabic words.

Edward Fields has introduced wool mosaic rugs — little squares of color set within larger areas of color, forming plaid, herringbone, voodoo designs.

Harold Schwartz has designed a new line of wool rugs (Clavos) with matching bedspreads inspired by periods ranging from early Coptic to space age.

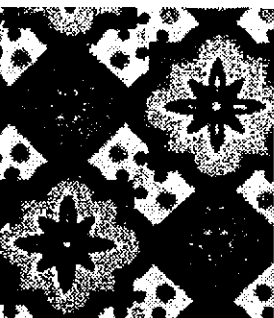

There are nylon shag rugs, short and tousled or in two-inch pile, (Karastan, Lee, Barwick) and some that are especially good as wall hangings (Cabin Crafts). Danish area rugs (the rya art collection) are modern designs in bright color combinations that include hot pink, green, orange, black, red on a putty colored ground.

There are small mini patterns and large Victorian florals in new rugs. New possibilities in all-wool carpets are opened with an achievement of multi-color effects done by a piece dyeing operation on colorless fabric. (Roxbury.)

Variety of campaigns expected for husband

Now, some observers think there may be a jet plane waiting to take off with a Mrs. Johnson-sponsored citizens campaign to combat crime in the streets.

White House aides first viewed with dismay Negro singer Bartha Kitt's emotional reaction at Mrs. Johnson's January luncheon focusing on what citizens can do about growing crime in their communities.

Miss Kitt said she thought the ladies didn't get to the crux of the matter. As she saw it: American youth is rebellious and angry and taking to marijuana because of the Vietnam war.

Mrs. Johnson had her answer to that: "Just because there is a war—and I pray there will come a just and honest peace—that still does not give us a free ticket not to work on bettering things in this country. We must keep our eyes, our hearts and our energies fixed on constructive aims and try to do something that will make this a happier, healthier, better-educated land."

After the Kitt incident got widespread publicity, Mrs. Johnson said she was sorry the "shrill voice of anger and discord" obliterated the real object of her luncheon discussion—to show some practical ways for women to get to work against crime in their hometowns.

"But, it produced an outpouring of several thousand letters, telegrams and phone calls, expressing sympathy for Mrs. Johnson and indignation over Miss Kitt's response. There also were pro-Bartha pickets and the issue was the subject of newspaper editorials and letters to the editors."

The White House now seems aware of what some political experts have written—that attacks on the First Lady have a favorable backlash.

It was all reminiscent of 1964 when campaign heckling had turned to advantage for Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson may appear the smiling Southern Lady, but she also is disciplined and determined. She showed some steel inside the velvet glove when "We Want Barry" boosters tried to drown out her traveling troupe in South Carolina.

Interrupted by chants and drumming while trying to make a whistle stop speech in Columbia, S.C., she took on the hecklers herself when accompanying state officials could not make any headway with appeals to politeness and Southern chivalry.

"In this country we have many viewpoints. You are entitled to yours. Right now," she said sternly, "I am entitled to mine." And she got on with her speech.

Mrs. Johnson also has come up strong on the current crop of more troublesome demonstrators: "Of course, they've got a right to express themselves and so have the great millions of American people that don't act like that. And, I feel boiling up in me the feeling that I think is shared by millions of Americans that we've got to start having more respect for the law. It must be cool and firm and measured. But I think the desire and determination is there on the part of the majority of Americans and we must start more firmly enforcing the law."

Some observers expect Mrs. Johnson to be subjected to increasing picketing and demonstrations by antiwar groups in the forthcoming campaign.

There is no indication, however, that Mrs. Johnson plans any changes in her normal pattern of public appearances.

Through the years in the White House, with an energetic staff headed by ex-newspaperwoman, now press secretary Elizabeth Carpenter and social secretary Bess Abell—daughter of former Kentucky governor and U.S. Sen. Earle Clements—Mrs. Johnson has combined social activities and travels to underline her husband's Great Society efforts.

She has gone out to slum areas to see Head Start antipov- erty, VISTA and Teacher Corps and education projects. She has made scores of speeches on themes of beautification and urging women and young people to get involved in their communities.

In everything she does, Mrs. Johnson prefers a low-key approach. She concedes she's "politically aware—and interested," but rejects the idea that she is a political figure on her own.

After 34 years as a politician's wife, she excels at meeting people, but maintains that speech-making still comes hard. A veteran of scores of speeches, she still rehearses over and over, often calling in Washington speech expert Heister Provensen to give her confidence.

Reagan would back Rocky

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Declaring the "stakes are too big" to allow dissension among Republicans, Gov. Ronald Reagan pledged Tuesday to support Nelson Rockefeller for president if the New York governor wins the GOP nomination.

The California governor thus disagreed with criticism of Rockefeller made by Barry Goldwater—the Republican nominee Reagan wholeheartedly backed in 1964. It was a nationwide television speech endorsing Goldwater which shot Reagan into political prominence.

The total number of telephones in operation over the world has doubled in the past 11 years.

Dope hearing postponed

STROUDSBURG — A request for Court-appointed attorneys has forced the delay of the hearing of two brothers on dope charges before Stroud Twp. Justice of the Peace Mrs. Ruth Miller.

The Stankiewicz brothers, Joseph, 20, and Gregory, 18, along with a 17 year-old East Stroudsburg, R.D. 2, youth were arrested Saturday, Feb. 24, when State Police from Stroudsburg made a routing check on a car parked on the old road from Willow Dell to Shawnee.

The youth was released in the custody of his parents. The Stankiewicz brothers were charged with possession and control of narcotics. They were released after each posted $2,000 bail.

Would you believe?

TOBYHANNA — Methodist Pope Helps Bishop.

Sounds like a crazy headline, doesn't it?

Well, it happened! And it was a Tobyhanna Pope, at that. His first name is Stanley and he is a supervisor at the Tobyhanna Army Depot.

Pope, his wife and their daughter-in-law were on the way back from Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport after saying goodbye to Larry, the Popes' son, who was flying to Pittsburgh. The time was about 7 p. m. on a recent Sunday evening. It was dark and cold.

As they were driving off Rte. 81, they saw a car at the side of the road with its lights blinking, and a man waving for help.

"Ordinarily, I don't stop for hitchhikers," Pope reports, "but the man seemed to be in trouble."

The man was the Most Reverend Bishop J. Carroll McCormick, Bishop of the Diocese of Scranton.

Bishop McCormick rode into Scranton with the Popes, who went out of their way to drive him home.

The Popes are members of the Tobyhanna Methodist Church.

Radio Club holds meeting

WIND GAP — The regular monthly business meeting of the Blue Mountain Radio Club was held Sunday at Wind Gap Boro Hall, at 2 p.m. with Donald A. Gold, Jr., president presiding.

Mrs. Ruth Dunbar, Secretary, read a letter from the Wind Gap Boro Council giving the club permission to use Wind Gap Boro Hall as a permanent address for the club license. Minutes of the previous Board of Directors meeting were read with suggestions to be carried to the membership.

Communications officer, Mrs. Betty Washburn, stated she has added another member to her staff, William VanBuskirk. Blood calls and unit numbers were also discussed.

One new member was accepted for membership, Aaron Whittemore, Glen Gardner, N.J.

The annual banquet to be held at Stockertown Memorial Hall, May 4th, 1968 will be entertained by the "Blue Notes" of Bethlehem. All plans are completed.

Professor publishes Article

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mr. James N. J. Henwood, an associate professor of social studies at East Stroudsburg State College, has an article on "team teaching" in print in the current issue of "The Pennsylvania School Journal."

Although the article described team teaching methods in eleventh grade American history classes, Mr. Henwood claims that they are equally applicable to any subject or grade.

Following discussion of problems associated with team teaching, he said that there is no one perfect teaching method; team teaching, like other methods, has advantages and disadvantages.

'Do it now' -- three magic words

BY CLEMENT STONE
Insurance Company President,
Chicago, Ill.

I first learned the secret back in 1939.

At that time I owned an insurance agency and directed more than 1,000 licensed agents throughout the country. I had a working agreement with a large insurance company which printed the policies and paid the claims while I assumed all other expenses.

One day a letter came from a top executive of this company cancelling our agreement. It meant the end of my business -- the termination of income for the agents who worked for me.

The executive also said that the president of his company was leaving on a trip and would be gone for two months so there was no point in my trying to contact him. It appeared that I had no recourse -- that is, almost no recourse.

Without a word to anyone, I went to my bedroom, knelt and thanked God for my blessings -- a healthy body, a wonderful wife, three fine children and the unlimited opportunities which my country offered.

Answer came
"I believe You are a loving God," I prayed, "and that You can help me find an answer. Please guide my thoughts and actions."

I had submitted the problem to my God and asked for His help. What now?

The answer came that I was to move ahead on the assumption that He was already giving me help. So I went to my desk and wrote these words at the top of a sheet of paper: Do it now.

Do what? The president of the company was the only one who could change this action and he was out of the country beyond reach.

Then my mind began playing with the phrase "beyond reach." He wasn't -- totally. There was always the

Three ESSC professors honored
EAST STROUDSBURG — Three members of the staff of East Stroudsburg State College have been selected for inclusion in the 1968 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

John G. Muncie, an associate professor of Social Studies, Robert A. Partel, a part-time instructor of Social Studies, and Clyde H. Witman, an assistant professor of Health and Physical Education, were staff members accorded honors through selection by a 14-man national board of editors.

In addition to the three staff members, Paul M. Craven, Jr., an alumnus of the college and son of Paul M. Craven, Sr., an associate professor of English at ESSC, also received recognition.

Outstanding Young Men of America is an annual biographical compilation of approximately 10,000 young men of outstanding rank throughout the country. Nominees for the book come from many sources. However, the majority of the nomination are made by Jaycee chapters and college alumni associations.

SBA plans May sales

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. Tuesday night unveiled promotion plans for May.

The association met in the Motel Inn Towne and heard Russell Snyder, promotion committee chairman, tell them of the "Mink for Mothers" plan.

To be awarded to some woman will be a mink stole and, according to Snyder, there will be a number of other gifts awarded too.

The association will release more information on the promotion at a later date.

Coolbaugh oks law

TOBYHANNA — The Coolbaugh township supervisors adopted the new sewage ordinance required by the Sewerage Facilities Act of 1966 during a meeting Monday night in the township firehall.

The ordinance will establish an initial permit fee of $25.

The two sewage inspectors appointed were David Pope and Michael Wash.

telephone.

And here was the key to the situation. There was something I could do, but a negative force within me -- it's within all of us -- was saying, "It's no use. You won't reach him. Even if you do get him on the phone, he'll be furious at you."

Negative force
This is the negative force in us that paralyzes the will and nubs us from taking action right now. Somewhere I fought this negative thought off and then the self-motivator "Do It Now" flashed through my mind.

I immediately got into action by placing the call for the president wherever he was in the world.

I made a few calls without reaching him. Each time I told myself "Forget it." But finally I located him and took a deep breath as I heard him come on the line. He listened sympathetically and we ironed out several misunderstandings. In the end he gave me permission to resume my operations.

That experience taught me the secret of getting the difficult things done. First, I believe God wants us to come to Him with any problem we have.

Secondly, I think that, if our motives are sound, He will give us direction by planting right suggestions in our minds. Then comes the need for action without which all that He is trying to do for us is cancelled.

When we receive a setback, the mind often seems numb; we feel incapable of making any kind of decision.

Hasty action
Action at this point might be hasty and too emotional. This is why I feel it is so important to take the time for prayer and for seeking help from a Higher Power. But then steps must be taken.

I suggest we dwell on the three-word sentence, Do it now.

The crisis Jorgen Juhl Dahl faced several years ago was not serious, but I was delighted with the way he handled it. Jorgen was a student at the University of Copenhagen when some visitors from Chicago to Denmark made arrangements for Jorgen to come to the United States.

On arriving in Washington, where he had one day for sightseeing, Jorgen checked in at a hotel in the evening. Then the young man was dealt a shocking blow:

He found that his wallet was missing. In it were his passport and money. He ran down to the hotel desk.

"We'll do everything we can," said the manager.

But the next morning the wallet had still not been located. Jorgen Juhl Dahl had less than two dollars change in his pockets. Alone in a foreign country, he wondered what he should do.

Jorgen refused to be paralyzed by the blow. "No!" he said. "I won't do any of these things! Now is the time to go out and see Washington. I have one precious day in this great capital and I may never be here again."

And so Jorgen headed off on foot. He saw the White House and the Capitol, he visited the great museums and some other places he'd wanted to see. He bought peanuts and candy and nibbled on them to keep from getting too hungry.

Police later found his passport and wallet and the rest of the trip went smoothly. But when Jorgen returned to Denmark, the part of his American trip he remembered most vividly was that day on foot in Washington -- a day that might forever have escaped him if he had not employed the art of do it now.

The principle of do it now is the secret of getting that difficult thing done. More important, it is to be our response to God's willingness to help us, if His power in our world is to grow.

Pupils tour Trumatic

STROUDSBURG — Twenty-eight students from Stroudsburg High School's industrial arts department recently toured Trumatic plant in East Stroudsburg.

The main purpose of the trip was to allow the students to inspect the facilities of the company and then correlated what was learned with activities in the industrial arts and shop English classes.

Making the trip were David Ace, Mike Antonacci, Brian Bittenbender, Mike Duke, Harley Fish, Jim Kilgo, Bob

The trip was arranged by John Montgomery, Industrial Department head. Accompanying the boys, in addition to Montgomery, were Charles Wyckoff and William Haney.

England's queen names new poet

LONDON (AP) — Cecil Day-Lewis shooed the sleeping cat off a pile of his manuscripts and looked thoughtful, the way the queen's poet should.

"Frankly, no one knows just what Britain's poet laureate is supposed to do," he said.

"I don't intend to be some sort of court trumpeter. When I write a public poem it will have to be about something that touches the nation in a big way. Of course, one must avoid embarrassing the royal family."

Ex-Communist, agnostic, mystery story writer and family man, Day-Lewis was an unexpected choice to succeed the late John Masefield as Queen Elizabeth's official versifier.

He's certainly the only poet laureate who ever sold the Daily Worker. That was back in the 1930s, when Day-Lewis and many other intellectuals campaigned with the Communists over such searing issue as the Spanish Civil War.

"I suppose it's because I'm Irish, but I've always had a natural prejudice for the small battalion," Day-Lewis said. "That's one of the reasons I joined the Communist party before the war. It was then the smallest battalion in the country." He resigned in 1939.

A tall, gray-haired man of 63, gentle in voice and manner, Day-Lewis long has been regarded as one of Britain's major poets. He's a traditionalist who enjoys striking precise images in verse rather than weaving abstract patterns.

Nevertheless it was still a shock to Day-Lewis—and many other poetical types—when Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced his appointment as poet laureate in the new year.

The job—at a nominal $168 a year—was expected to go either to Robert Graves or John Betjeman.

Long before his appointment to the poetic throne, Day-Lewis, a descendant of the great Anglo-Irish novelist Oliver Goldsmith, was turning out work that read like the output of a true poet laureate.

One poem he composed last year for the opening of a new concert hall beside London's river hit the note:

"Swell the broad streams of art
"Old father Thames! Men leave their source,
"Wander, and die: but on your mazy course
"Through London's heart
"From age to age the water-music ebbs and flows."

Day-Lewis today is a different man from the revolutionary of his youthful years. But he remains an idealist, a socialist, a man dedicated to the humanities.

The bread and butter comes from the score of thrillers he has written under the pseudonym Nicholas Blake. "I'm just completing a new one," Day-Lewis said, indicating some papers on which the cat had been dozing. "Of course I shall go on writing them."

The poet laureate and his attractive actress wife, Jill, 20 years his junior, have a daughter, Tamara, 14, and a son, Daniel, 10.

State fails to ban 'Candy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state of Pennsylvania failed today in a bid to ban circulation of "Candy" and to have the Supreme Court clarify obscenity law.

"Candy," a novel by Terry Southern, has sold more than 2½ million copies. Pennsylvania officials described the book as "a verbal materialization of the obscenities which obsess the author."

Pennsylvania law authorizes county district attorneys to take state court action to try to suppress obscene books and magazines. The action against "Candy" was begun by Philadelphia Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter.

TOKYO (AP) — Revolution is often a young man's game, but the fountainheads of its fervor in Asia today are Mao Tse-tung, 74, and Ho Chi Minh, 77.

Recurrent reports that either or both are ill or dead call attention to their age and frailty. Their health is something more than cafe gossip in Peking and Hanoi: any suspicion that they might be passing from the active political scene could touch off struggles for power.

Because of this—and because each is a symbol by which millions set store—reports they are not in the best of health get quick reactions.

Hanoi's news agency released early this month a photo of Ho with Cambodian Foreign Minister Norodom Phurissari, in an apparent effort to disprove a Saigon report Ho had died Dec. 26. In Tokyo, the Cambodian Embassy said Norodom flew to Hanoi on Dec. 30.

Rumors that Mao is dead or seriously ill have flown fast and thick since he began his campaign to regain power from President Liu Shao-chi in August 1966.

The situation became so bad the Communist Central Committee sent out a circular to all provinces, municipalities and autonomous regions and districts last Oct. 17.

"Chairman Mao is physically healthy," it said. "This should be actively propagandized. All irresponsible rumors should be resolutely scotched."

Almost 50 years ago, when Ho was in his 20s, he stood in a rented dress suit before the victors of World War I at Versailles—where a peace treaty was being hammered out—to demand self-rule for Vietnam. Not surprisingly, neither the French who had colonized Indochina, nor the other big powers paid much attention.

Ho's struggle in the underground lasted through World War II; when negotiations with France broke down in 1946 he put aside diplomacy for the gun.

Identifying himself as a nationalist first and only later, after victory, as a Communist, he defeated the French with Chinese help in 1954.

Under pressure from the Russians—and a promise that talks would be held in 1956 to unify the country—Ho settled for half the Vietnamese loaf.

When the time for election talks came and went—ignored by a new anti-Communist strongman in the south, Ngo Dinh Diem—Ho, by then in his 60s, took up arms again.

Working with him are a Russian group, led by Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, and a pro-Chinese faction, headed by National Assembly chief Truong Chinh.

The balance is believed to be precarious, so much so that once he disappears from the top the two factions seem sure to come to grips.

If Ho is seeking to unify his country under Communist rule, Mao's job is a more intricate one—unifying his party under his own rule.

Mao was 28 when he helped form the Chinese Communist party. He was 56 when his revolution wrested the mainland from Chiang Kai-shek. His revolution now is in fact a rebellion against the fruits of his own earlier revolution—the government, party and mass organizations which grew out of 1919.

State money may be used in First Ward

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Council Wednesday night promised action on removal of additional trash in the First Ward and changing Third Street to a one-way street during a meeting in which Mayor Joseph Small thanked a small delegation of First Ward residents for their interest in borough activities.

Mrs. Alice Patterson of 118 N. Third St., acting spokesman for a group of eight First Ward residents, personally thanked Mayor Small for removing about 10 junk cars from the First Ward area.

Mrs. Patterson then asked council where residents can obtain money for property improvement.

Mayor Small believed that a state grant might cover the proposed improvement. He told the group that Rep. Russell Eshbach had said this type of improvement could be arranged.

Mrs. Patterson hinted that a petition was being drawn up among certain First Ward residents for some type of action on removing the blight caused by some boarded up houses.

The mayor said that the adoption of a housing ordinance at council's next monthly meeting would give council the necessary means to remove the boarded up houses.

H. L. Brooks of 64 N. Second St. said that an unoccupied house, owned by Ted Kahn, is "full of rats." He said the Kahn house is right next door to the house of Mr. and Mrs. Carlee Jones of 79 North Third St.

Recorder reveals earnings

STROUDSBURG — Carl Yost, Monroe County Register and Recorder, who was elected on an economy platform, revealed his earnings for the first two months in office Monday.

Yost claimed that the fee and salary method of determining wages earned by the office holder was about $24,000 last year, and that the job was costing the taxpayers too much money.

In his campaign as the Republican candidate, both in the primary election as well as in November, Yost said that he would accept $8,500 a year for the position, and turn the remainder of his fees back to the county.

2-month total
Monday, Yost revealed that his earnings for January and February, at $8,500 a year, total $1,416.

"Under the former system," Yost said, "my wages would be $4,899 for the same period."

Elwood Hintze, board chairman, said Monday that the county commissioners are expecting to receive at least $20,000 back from Yost's office.

Under the fee system, Yost would have received the following amounts: state fees, $59.95; Pa. stamps, $296.81; Register and Recorder's fees, $1200 salary plus half of the net left (about $1,200 more); Coolbaugh Township, $83.15; and inheritance tax share, $2,059.17.

Inheritance taxes paid in the first two months will decrease from the figure of $41,183, Yost said.

The new office holder said that he will make a report of his earnings every two months during the year.

Residents oppose landfill; Stroud tables lease plan

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Township supervisors Wednesday night tabled a proposed sanitary landfill site of the Shafer Schoolhouse Road after 15 rate taxpayers, led by Stroudsburg attorney John J. Pentz Jr., voiced their objections to the proposed plan.

The site, located in Stroud and Hamilton Townships and owned by John Brislin, has been approved by the East Stroudsburg Council but was also tabled by the Stroudsburg Council Wednesday night. The three municipalities would share a $12,000 lease cost over a period of five years at $2,400 a year.

John C. Haddon, Stroudsburg RD 2, and Pentz presented the supervisors with a petition bearing 200 signatures of Stroud Township residents opposing the landfill.

Pentz, who acknowledged that he was speaking for the La-Re-Do land development corporation which has land near the site of the proposed landfill, told the supervisors that the area would be an eyesore, right near the highway, with trucks coming and going and papers and debris scattered around the landscape.

Douglas Williams, a member of the Monroe County Park Commission, said, "Where do the taxpayers come in . . . we must think of the future in that there are some areas of the county which have been marred, but we need not destroy any more."

"The township stands to lose at least $18,000 a year in tax revenues," Williams claimed.

"You don't permit trailers, under certain conditions," Pentz told the supervisors, "but what are you doing about a prime residential area such as this?"

"Here is an area with a beautiful view, but it appears that it will now overlook a dump," Pentz told the supervisors.

Both Williams and Pentz admitted that locating a site for a landfill is a problem, but related numerous reasons why the Shafer Schoolhouse Road site was not a good choice.

In other business, a budget of $189,490 was approved by the board with a comment that no one had bothered to come in to inspect it while it was available.

The resignation of Stanley G. Grace, a member of the planning commission, was accepted by the board and John R. Cruse was appointed to fill the unexpired term until 1971.

Police Chief H. W. Tobbs reported that 64 complaints were investigated in February and one false burglarly alarm answered. Lester Rice, fire chief, reported that four grass fires occurred with 173 men and four trucks responding.

Bulk mailers set meeting on problems

EAST STROUDSBURG — A meeting of businessmen who use the U. S. Mail in large quantities is set for Wednesday, March 13, in the Holiday Inn, East Stroudsburg, at 10:30 a.m.

The meeting is to discuss formation of the Pocono Mountain Mail Users Council. Areas covered by the council will be Monroe County, the southern portion of Pike County and the Slate Belt.

"Mail service is a vital part of the operation of almost every business or organization in the area," East Stroudsburg Postmaster Stewart Marsh said last night.

"These organizations and businesses owe it to themselves to find out how they can get the most out of the postage they pay and how they can get the best possible postal service," Marsh added.

Marsh pointed out that sometimes a businessman can get better mail service by simply coming in and talking about transportation, dispatch times, or use of proper packaging materials.

Marsh urges all interested businessmen and officials from organizations to attend the meeting and "get the facts first hand."

Mayors proclaim poison prevention week

STROUDSBURG — Mayors Joseph Small of Stroudsburg and Thomas Kistler of East Stroudsburg, have joined President Johnson and area physicians and pharmacists in proclaiming the week of March 17 as National Poison Prevention Week.

Each year, according to area physicians and pharmacists, hundreds of thousands of children accidentally swallow medicines and common household products which in turn cause crowded conditions in hospitals.

The children are brought to the hospital for treatment and create a crowded condition.

The age group involved are children under five years old and the medication highest on the list is aspirin.

Area doctors and pharmacists urge all families in the area to contact their family physician or pharmacist and discuss a plan to "poison proof" the home.

Several steps recommended are: store all medicines out of the reach of children; always refer to medicine by its proper name and not as "candy"; and take all medicine in a well-lighted room and always read the label before taking the medicine.

EAST STROUDSBURG — A proposed survey and questionnaire on opening the East Stroudsburg High School gymnasium and pool to the public was suggested by superintendent Pauline Peterson Wednesday night during a detailed explanation of the school district's athletic program by director of athletics, Jack Kist.

The report on the athletic program included a complete player roster of all team sports, all injuries and type of injury, time and place of pre-season scrimmages and number of athletes cut from each squad.

Chrysler may want local land

STROUDSBURG — Chrysler Corporation is negotiating to secure an option on land within the Monty Crowe Industrial Park in Stroud Township, informed sources verified Wednesday night.

Ralph Reppert, president of Pocono Mountains Industries, an arm of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce which owns the industrial park, Wednesday night denied that Chrysler has such intentions.

The possibility of Chrysler moving into the area was discussed Wednesday night during a meeting of the East Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn.

Reppert said that the Pocono Mountains Industries is only dealing with the Erie - Lackawanna Railroad.

Sources from Scranton over the weekend revealed that Chrysler intends to purchase about 200 acres of land within the Industrial Park area. The industrial park, however, only has 32 available acres.

The informed local source confirmed that Chrysler may be negotiating for options on land adjacent to the industrial park. Rumors of the impending purchase have circulated among the business community since Friday.

Health agency reviews plan

STROUDSBURG — A point-by-point comparison of a pilot program for the mentally retarded and an addendum to the proposed annual plan, were presented to the Tri-County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Advisory Board, by its administrator, Thomas Foley, during a meeting held Wednesday night in its office on Sarah Street, Stroudsburg.

Foley attended a recent two-day conference in Harrisburg which was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association of Retarded Children, to study an existing pilot program for rural retarded persons in southwestern Wisconsin.

This project developed a ten-point program to provide comprehensive services to the mentally retarded.

Since this program has been extremely successful and is operating in a region which is somewhat similar to the tri-county area, it serves as an effective guide in the planning of services for the mentally retarded, said Foley.

The point-by-point comparison presented by Foley brought out a current guide of existing and anticipated services that will be provided.

Public education — the tri-county program will provide a program of public information. The administrator has already spoken to ten civic and service organizations. The Mental Health center is hiring a full time person to handle consultation and education. Social workers will also provide this information service on a continuing basis.

Professional and Agency information — programs will be planned to provide specific information to physicians, dentists, judges, lawyers, law enforcement officers, teachers and clergymen in the form of seminars, workshops and lectures.

Fixed Point of Referral — the fixed points of referral will be in the office of the administrator in Monroe County, an auxiliary office in Carbon, and one day per week service in Pike County.

Local Diagnostic Services — this will give contracted services of any professional diagnostician that may be needed, including psychiatrists, psychologists, a pediatrician, a neurologist and an audiologist.

Home Training Specialist Program — to assist in the development of pre-school day care centers for the mentally retarded, with anticipation to have a staff member assist parents in the training of the mentally retarded prior to entry into day-care center.

The progression would then be from early home training to day care centers to special education to workshops.

Community Placement Workers — The tri-county program will work with child welfare agencies in the medical service area to provide foster home placement when necessary.

Special Education — Special education programs are well established in the tri-county area. The agency's program will work with schools to insure a smooth flow of services for the mentally retarded.

Day-Care Programs — Monroe County has a pre-school day care center program sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Stroudsburg. A day care center should be developed in Carbon County.

Sheltered Workshops — The Burnley Workshop in Monroe, and the proposed Bishop Workshop in Carbon, will provide both facilities and services for this phase.

'Mudcat' Grant seeking starting spot with Dodgers

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jim Grant took a long, hard look at baseball a few months ago and decided he could do without it.

Now, however, the former World Series pitching hero has a new address, a new challenge and a brighter outlook on life between the foul lines.

Wallenpaupack wins title

SCRANTON — Wallenpaupack Area High School Wednesday night exploded for a 25-point final period to whip Honesdale 69-61 and capture the Wayne County League basketball championship in a game played at the Scranton Catholic Youth Center.

The Buckhorns pulled into the lead after the score was knotted 44-44 at the end of the third period.

Four Wallenpaupack cagers finished in double figures with Rick Anke leading the championship five with 19.

Honesdale, behind Ron Rowe with 15, pulled to a 23-27 halftime lead and held on during the third quarter but collapsed in the final minutes to give the Buckhorns the title.

Wallenpaupack (17-5), will now meet Elk Lake (18-5), the Susquehanna League representative for the PIAA District 12 Class C championship at the Carbondale CYC.

Grant, traded with shortstop Zeilo Versailles from Minnesota to Los Angeles in the winter's biggest interleague transaction, is one of the hardest working — and happiest — Dodgers at the club's bustling spring training base.

"I am delighted to be with a first-class organization."

Until he parted company with the Twins, who get veteran catcher John Roseboro and relief pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller in the exchange, Mudcat was miserable.

"My mind was warped," he said. "For the first time in my life I had hate in my heart. I was ready to pack it in."

The abyss between Grant and the Twins developed during his first three years with the club, then cracked wide open last season. He had won 21 games in 1965 and had beaten the Dodgers twice in the Series. He was the American League's Pitcher of the Year that season, but he slipped to 13-13 while nursing a knee injury the following year and was a forgotten man in 1967, starting just 14 times.

NIT cage tournament sets first game at Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Marshall and St. Peter's of New Jersey will meet in the first game of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament opening in the new Madison Square Garden March 14, it became known Wednesday night.

Asa Businell, commissioner of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference which is in charge of the NIT, said official announcement of the first round pairings and brackets for the 16-team field would be announced Thursday.

"I have no comment on that," Businell said when told that Eddie Barnett, athletic director at Marshall in Huntington, W.Va., had announced the game with St. Peter's.

West Virginia, which accepted an NIT bid only a few hours earlier, will play Dayton Saturday night, March 16, according to Robert Brown, athletic director of the Mountaineers in Morgantown, W.Va.

In another first-round game March 15, Kansas will oppose Temple, the Kansas athletic office announced in Lawrence, Kan.

Army announced its first-round game would be at Saturday afternoon against Notre Dame, which probably would be shown on television.

Wyoming said it would play Villanova in the opening round March 15 at 9 p.m.

No immediate word was available from the athletic directors from the other schools entered, Long Island, Duquesne, Bradley, Fordham and Oklahoma City.

The selection of West Virginia as the 15th team in the field was announced earlier Wednesday.

Three berths remain open in NCAA basketball tourney

By The Associated Press
Although three berths still have to be decided, the NCAA's major college basketball championship tournament opens a two-week run Saturday with UCLA's defending champions favored to meet top-ranked Houston again in the semifinals on March 22.

Still up for grabs in the sprawling 23-team tournament are the spots for the Big Ten, Atlantic Coast Conference and the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Iowa is a virtual cinch to bag the Big Ten's berth Saturday. The Hawkeyes, 10-3 in the conference, already have assured themselves of a tie for the title. Ohio State, 10-4, has finished its schedule.

Iowa will be at home Saturday in its winup with weak Michigan, 5-8. The Hawkeyes trounced Michigan 82-70 at Ann Arbor, Mich., previously.

The WCAC title will be decided in games Friday and Saturday. Santa Clara is first with 11-1 followed by Loyola of Los Angeles 10-2 and San Francisco 9-3. Loyola plays at San Francisco Friday and at Santa Clara in the key game Saturday. In an earlier clash Santa Clara beat Loyola at Los Angeles 75-71.

Santa Clara plays Pepperdine, 2-10, at home Friday while San Francisco takes on Pepperdine Saturday.

Fifth-ranked North Carolina and sixth-ranked Duke are favored to battle for the ACC's berth in the Conference tournament Thursday through Saturday.

North Carolina beat Duke at home 75-72 early in the season but the Blue Devils avenged that defeat at Durham last Saturday night with an 87-86 victory in a three-overtime thriller.

Kansas State, Columbia and East Tennessee clinched tourney berths in the last two nights.

Nine of the Top Ten in the weekly Associated Press poll will be in the NCAA tourney if either North Carolina or Duke wins the ACC's tournament.

St. Bonaventure, 22-0, is in the other bracket of the tournament.

Last year UCLA thumped Houston 73-58 in the semifinals and then trounced Dayton 79-61 for the title.

Houston star ineligible for NCAA's

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — George Reynolds, a starting guard for the Houston Cougars, the nation's No. 1 collegiate basketball team, will be ineligible to compete in the NCAA playoffs starting next weekend.

Houston officials said Wednesday the number of semester hours accepted by the university when Reynolds transferred from Imperial Valley Junior College is not sufficient to permit him to participate in post-season games.

"Although there was no question about his eligibility for regular season play, the number of semester hours accepted when he transferred will not permit him to play in the national tournament," the announcement said.

Reynolds led the team in assists with 157 and scored 280 points.

Guy Lewis, the head coach, said the starting guard position will be taken over by Vern Lewis, a senior and a son of the coach.

Godfrey, 6-3 from Aspermont, Tex., helped Abilene Christian win the Southland Conference title and was the fourth leading scorer in the conference records with 1,467 career points.

Logan, 6-0 from Asheville, N.C., was a contender all season for the scoring lead in the NAIA. Kauffman, at 6-8 the tallest player on the first team, set school scoring records in helping Godfrey win the Carolinas Conference championship. He is from Scarsdale, N.Y., and rated a fine prospect for the pros.

McGraw, a 6-2 southpaw from Kankakee, Ill., helped Illinois State go on a 17-game winning streak for a 24-2 season record and a berth in the NCAA College Division tournament that opened this week.

Leeman's dual meet mark at Lehigh is even better than his tournament log. While producing 16 winning teams, in 15 seasons, his squads have won 145 times against only 31 losses. There have been three ties.

His skills were extended to the limit this year as injuries and illness decimated a squad which already had lost championships such as Mike Canuso and Joe Peritore through graduation.

Jon Rushatz, an eastern titlist two years ago at Pittsburgh and a runnerup last March at the Penn Palestra, went to the sidelines Feb. 3.

The '68 tourney was at Pittsburgh, site of this weekend's festivities which begin at 1 p.m. Friday (March 8). There will be an 8 p.m. session Friday and sessions at 12:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday (March 9).

Lehigh, after sweeping the field at Pitt two seasons ago, duplicated that feat last year at the University of Pennsylvania Palestra in Philadelphia, retaining championship laurels.

These victories added to Lehigh's prestige as the tournament's finest all-time participant. The Engineers, spurred on by a loyal delegation of rooters which makes every tourney, have won more team titles (19) and more individual crowns (93) than any other team in the Eastern Assn.

Lehigh grapplers ready for EIWA championships

BETHLEHEM — Gerry Leeman, who has produced 16 winning teams in 16 years as head wrestling coach at Lehigh University, hopes to extend another successful streak during the impending Eastern Assn. championship tournament at the University of Pittsburgh Friday and Saturday (March 8-9).

In 15 of these tournaments, since succeeding the late Billy Sheridan as mentor of the Engineers, he has directed teams to six championships, three second-place finishes and six third-place finishes. Never, under his guidance, has Lehigh been lower than third in the 16-team title scramble.

Recently the Engineers have dominated the title picture, winning half a dozen championships since 1959. Lehigh took it all in 1961, 1962, 1964, 1966 and 1967. Penn State and Pitt shared the crown in 1960, with Lehigh third, and Syracuse was the winner in 1963 and 1965 with the Engineers second each time.

JIM MURRAY

'Powder Murray'

ALTA, Utah — You all know me as a concerned American. Wherever things are not right with the Republic, I, like John Paul Jones, Stephen Decatur, et al., take steps to repair them. Ask not what your country can do for you, etc., etc.

It was this thought in mind that I took to the slopes of ALTA which my friend, Ezra Bowen, referred to only this week as the "deepest, darkest ski mountains in America."

For years, my friends have been telling me, "You are never too old to learn to ski—look at Lowell Thomas, he's over 70. Look at Art Linkletter, he is over 50." And so on.

Very well. What is the crying need of our country today? Downhill skiing right? Witness the debacle of Chamrousse in the recent Olympics. Our team came down the mountain like a snowball with ski poles, ski tips, goggles and helmet sticking out of it. We barely beat Morocco.

So I piled the family into an airplane and headed for the picturesque Peruvian Lodge at the foot of Sugar Loaf in Alta, the citadel of Western powder snow, the slopes so deep the U. S. Artillery has to clear them periodically clear up to the end of April.

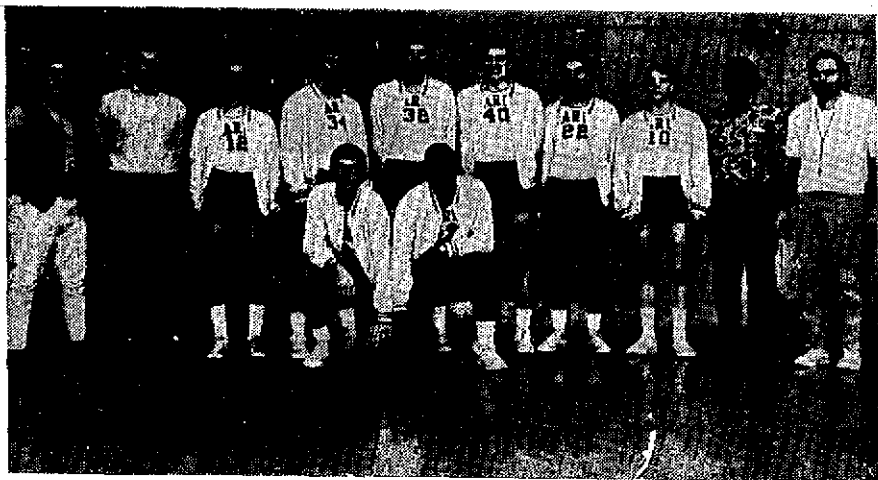

Immodesty prevents me from telling you what happened next, so I will turn the pen over to the Boswell of Birdview, No. 3 son, Eric as I am wont to do in matters of this kind where the first person singular proves embarrassing:

"Well, Mom sez, 'Yer not! Tell me yer not goin' skiing at yer age!' An Dad gets all red in the face and sez, 'Lissen, are we gunna sit here and let John Clawed Kelly have a laff on us all? They is no resin ta shirt our parietic duty. I seen how Kelly done it an everybody sez he has bad form but has this kind of soocide courage yrs truly is noted for also.' An Mom sez, 'Well, the oney ski terms I know of are 'spiral fracture' and 'chilblains' so I guess my vocabulary ain't gonna improve none this week. I will call Abbey Rents and get the trackshun sent over. Leave me be the first sign yer cast' willya?"

"Well, we got to the Parovian Lodge and Dad seen the mountain which is right out the back door, and he turned white. 'Well,' he sez, they is no use to rush this thing as we hav 'til 1972 before yrs truly has to be ready for the Olympics' but Mom sez, 'Awright, John Clawed, leave us see you get ready for the downhill junior salami.'

"So Bob Travis fit Dad to sum skis and sed, 'awright, jes grab this rope toe' and dad did an it pulled him 75 feet thru the snow and his glasses flew off and his skis came loose, and Mom covered her eyes an sez, 'Omy God, its twisted his feet backwards!' Only it was just the skis that was backwards and they took a shovel and found Dad's glasses and Mom sez 'I wonder does John Clawed hav trubble hanging on to the rope toe, too?'

Area horses gain wins in Florida

STROUDSBURG — Horses trained and shown by Miss Sandy Vaughn and William Dickerson of the Pleasant Valley Farm, Snyder'sville, Pa. as well as Miss Beverly Swank of East Stroudsburg, Pa. and Miss Leslie Stiff of Kresgeville, Pa. racked up a string of victories at four different horse shows on the "Sunshine Circuit" in Florida recently.

Horses owned by Doris S. Hinton, Sciota, Pa., Lynne Trusdall, New Hope, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. John Riker, owners of Westenhook Farms of Florida, and Connecticut were shown.

At the West Palm Beach show, Mrs. Hinton's Dudes Baby Doll, who was 1967 number three halter horse in the nation, was first in three-year old halter and reserve grand champion. Miss Trusdall's Casual Miss placed second in the aged mare division.

At the same show Miss Vaughn took first in the jumping as Miss Stiff did in English Pleasure.

At the Martin County shoe Dudes Baby Doll again took first and reserve grand champion in her class. Casual Miss again took second in aged mare division.

The WHAF Quarter Horse Show in Miami gave "Baby Doll" and "Miss" their previous first and second.

Again at the Davie, Florida show "Baby Doll" first and Casual Miss a third. Miss Beverly Swank also garnered a first in English Pleasure. Miss Sandy Vaughn won the Gold Coast Champion, with Candisugar Riker, trained by her at Pleasant Valley Farm.

Mr. Dickerson, trainer of Dudes Baby Doll and Casual Miss showed both at all of the shows.

Miss Vaughn is residing at Westenhook Farms, West Palm Beach for the winter season training and showing horses for Mr. and Mrs. Riker until the spring horse show season opens in the north.

President setting new mark for granting of executive clemency

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is setting records in granting executive clemency to men and women convicted of federal crimes.

He has approved more pardons and commutations in four years in office than President Dwight D. Eisenhower approved in eight.

The Johnson administration explanation is that the volume of pleas for clemency has swollen annually. And officials point out that in 1965-66, when all records for clemency cases—approved and denied—were broken, clemency was getting unprecedented full-time attention from a White House Fellow working in government for a year.

Present indications are that before Johnson's present term of office is over he will have denied more clemency petitions than Eisenhower did, too. He has turned down two for every one he has approved. Under Eisenhower, three were rejected for every one granted.

The president of the United States is the ultimate court of appeals for persons convicted of federal crimes.

After juries have convicted, trial courts have sentenced, and appellate courts have upheld, the court of last resort under the Constitution is the chief executive.

He alone has the power to pardon—to wipe the slate clear—or to commute sentence, reducing the time an offender must spend behind bars. Both forms of leniency come under the general heading of executive clemency, a tradition as old as kings.

With the assistance of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, The Associated Press took a look into the clemency situation.

The Plain Dealer last summer published a 13-part series about a northern Ohio narcotics peddler, John Alfred Gay, whose 10-year sentence for selling heroin was commuted by Johnson to seven years.

Gay left prison—the U.S. hospital at Lexington, Ky.—last January after serving 4½ years. Besides his commutation, he had accumulated good behavior time while in prison that further reduced his term of confinement.

The Plain Dealer observed that Gay's commutation had been granted over the objection of the U.S. attorney's office that prosecuted the case. It quoted federal officials as saying clemency had been granted in order to bring Gay's sentence into line with those of comparable offenders.

According to the newspaper, Gay prepared most of the clemency petition himself while in prison. It listed the names of the character references provided by Gay—mostly neighbors and relatives—with the help of his father. The Plain Dealer quoted U.S. pardon attorney

Reed Cozart as saying the references were not checked — "they didn't play any part in the commutation."

In August, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., placed in the Congressional Record statistics reflecting what he called "a spectacular increase" in the pardons and commutations bestowed by Johnson. Williams complained of "the new attitude of the administration in opening prison doors" and said, "It is time we stopped coddling these criminals."

He noted that in the fiscal years 1964-67, roughly covering

Johnson's tenure of office, 1,097 pardons and 256 commutations had been granted—an average of 338 clemency acts a year. He contrasted these figures with the average of 200 a year by John F. Kennedy—and 130 a year by Eisenhower.

The volume of denials soared along with the approvals. In fiscal 1966, for example, an all-time high of 364 pardons and 81 commutations were approved by the White House. But in the same year, 726 bids for executive clemency were denied.

Williams told The Associated Press he had not meant to imply any impropriety because of the increase in pardons and commutations.

"I really wouldn't want to go beyond what I said then," he said. "I merely was surprised by the number and thought it was worth mentioning. I have no evidence of impropriety and don't want to leave that inference. I have no plans to investigate clemency or pursue the matter further."

To date, under the Johnson administration, 1,354 pardons and commutations have been granted, and 2,713 applications have been rejected.

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Mod choreographer Katherine Dunham's living in an East St. Louis (Ill.) slum area teaching youngsters as her contribution against ghetto desperation; meanwhile doubling as artist-in-residence at Southern Illinois University. Well known Southampton (L. I.) restaurateur Herb McCarthy's wife, Ruth, was found dead; sleeping pill accident.

Sidney Chaplin (like his pop Charlie now a European resident) signed for his first French film, co-starring with Beaudine in "Hlo," an adventure thriller. The Beatles are financing an hour-long television special about ballerina Margot Fonteyn. Yep, Gladys Shelley writes a song for everything: for Leap Year she whipped up "You Ought to Have a Wife."

Now it's New York's Oriental actors about to picket — The Billy Rose Theatre where Mitch Miller's "Here's Where I Belong" musical will open — complaining about their "minority problems." Which includes hiring Orientals from other cities, notably all the way from the Orient, when there are enough domestic Oriental types to more than go-round Broadway.

"Have you ever seen an Oriental perform the role of 'Sakini' in 'Teahouse of the August Moon'?" the official complaint pleads; "Or Charlie Chan, or Mr. Moto?" The role of "Lee" in Mitch Miller's musical is "the latest infraction. This Chinese character is being played by a non-Oriental." Adding, nominally, "This is where we belong."

Entertainment unions, notably Actors Equity, states "The Oriental Actors of America," have been successful at eliminating use of "black face" as discriminatory, degrading and an insult and the "OAA" asks why non-Orientals are allowed to pay dues to unions which have "not fought to eliminate the use of 'yellow face,' plus, 'Does management believe the Oriental incapable of portraying himself?'"

The Oriental actors group also bemoans a trend toward imported "alien Orientals" from Japan, etc.; members all are dues-paying members belonging to Actors Equity, APTIA (radio-TV performers union), Screen Actors Guild, AGVA (variety-vaudville union) and the American Guild of Musical Artists (opera-concert, etc.). Goudy: just what we needed — a brand new vigorous minority.

Charlotte Ford Niarchos and Anne Ford Uzzelli are spending lots of time in Sun Valley. So-called private club resounded with nasty epithets when a lady columnist was screamed at by the husband of a well-known wallet because another columnist on the lady's paper had been writing about his marriage.

Low society, stuff Edward G. Robinson is old and tough enough to boast his own hairdresser for "Grand Slam" without anyone tossing aspersions, or flowers; combs and clips Eddie's Van Dyke beard. Juvenile power: no star of Paramount's "Round the Mulberry Bush" is over 20; nobody connected with it is over 28.

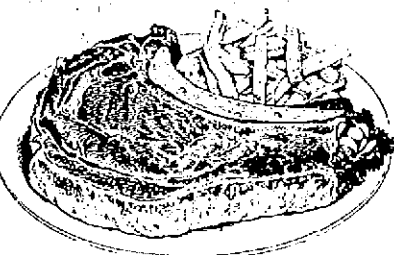

Liz Taylor paid a chunk for her pet "Garth" believing it's one of six lynx-point Siamese cats in the world; literally hundreds are pussy-eating around. Henry Mancini's writing nine tunes for Julie Andrews in "Darling Lili," good news for sore ears. Moscow's given the local Reuters bureau a "final serious warning" about stories based on "contact with private Soviet citizens." N. Y. City buried three newspapers for good within a year but that's only a local tragedy: total United States newspaper circulation in '67 zoomed to 61,560,952 a day.

Sidney Poitier was seen leaving the Golden Theatre after the first act of his "Morningside Heights" disaster opening night; he wasn't alone. Katharine (star of "The Graduate") Ross and men's hair-teaser Jay Sebring are brushing up on their sweet-talk.

The diplomatic minuet to get producer Ray Stark and his star Barbra Streisand talking again before "Funny Girl" opens in Sept. is more delicate than our Vietnam negotiations and the Kennedy Round put together. Peter O'Toole and Katie Hepburn get a 12-page layout in "Lili," French-playboy-t magazine.

Experts divided over television programming issues

PARIS ISLAND, S.C. — Marine Private John A. Halada Jr., son of Mr. John A. Halada Sr. of Kunkletown, R.D. 2, was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

Mrs. David R. Miller of Skytop Lodge, Skytop, is serving aboard the U.S. Seventh Fleet destroyer USS Frank E. Evans off the coast of South Vietnam.

While patrolling off the coast the Evans received word from a spotter plane that an enemy force of about platoon size was hidden in a field near Phan Thiet, 75 miles east of Saigon.

The Evans gunfire forced the enemy to flee their concealment and were met by units of the South Vietnamese Army.

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's soft, vulnerable underbelly remains, year in and year out, its programming for children.

Some educators, psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers, and parents attack the apparently endless unreeling of elderly cartoon features, starring comedy cats, dogs and other anthropomorphic creatures and the aged "Our Gang" and Ritz Brothers comedies with emphasis often on cruel practical jokes.

They speak of conditioning youngsters to scenes of violence and, worse, turning youngsters of tender years into passive viewers instead of doers, spectators instead of participants.

On the other side of the programming coin, however, are some child experts who feel that children can work out their own hostilities by seeing rough housing in comedy forms on the small screen; that disturbed children will react inevitably to other stimuli if television's influences were removed. And a vast number of parents are happy indeed that on weekend mornings when mommy and daddy may want to catch a few extra winks, junior settles down quietly to enjoy "Frankenstein Jr.," "King Kong" or "Davey and Goliath"—three Saturday morning cartoons among the 30-odd which are available on the network stations in the New York area alone.

Thus, while children's programming generally comes under the guns, the few programs upon which the adult experts smile assume an importance and stature that sometimes seems quite beyond their content.

In the forefront is CBS' "Captain Kangaroo," which has been perking along for 13 years, amusing and gently instructing youngsters from about 4 to 8, with its puppets Mr. Moose and Bunny Rabbit, with Mr. Greenjeans, documentary films and occasional guests who do everything from lightrope walking to demonstrating handcrafts.

Another show, "Romper Room," taped in Baltimore and with a small syndication on local stations around the country, also is highly regarded.

MOUNT POCONO — The request for federal funds by the Pocono Mountain Airport Authority was approved by the federal Aviation Assn. It was announced during the meeting of the authority Tuesday night.

The request was submitted by the authority in December, 1967, for a project that requires the purchase and clearing of about 25 acres of additional land, said Chester Sebring, temporary chairman.

Sebring announced that all the snow has been removed from the Airport since the recent snow storm.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Defensive play does not have to be dramatic to be good. Here is an example of excellent defense, the kind that passes unnoticed until attention is drawn to it.

South and West each had 19 high-card points, but South eventually became declarer at trick two. Declarer won with the queen and, having nothing better to play, led a spade.

West cashed both his trumps and then led the ace of clubs. Declarer ruffed, but later went down one because he had to lose a heart to the king.

What's remarkable about the defense, you may ask? Well, let's see what would have happened if West had not led a diamond at trick two. Suppose he had continued with a club, as most players would.

South ruffs, but now has the contract in tow. It is not hard for him to deduce from the bidding that West has the A-Q of spades. Therefore, in order to avoid staking the result of the contract on a heart finesse, he decides to endplay West.

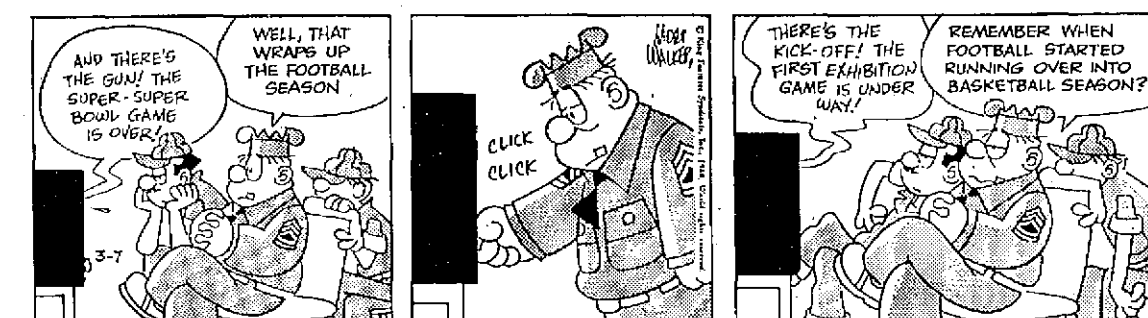

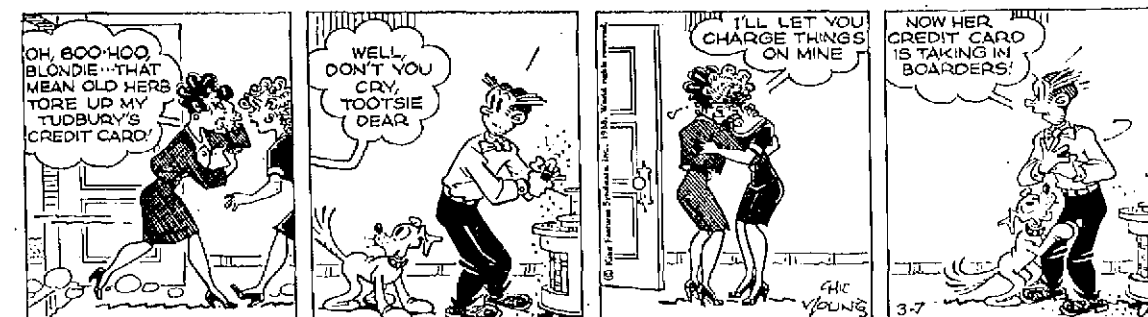

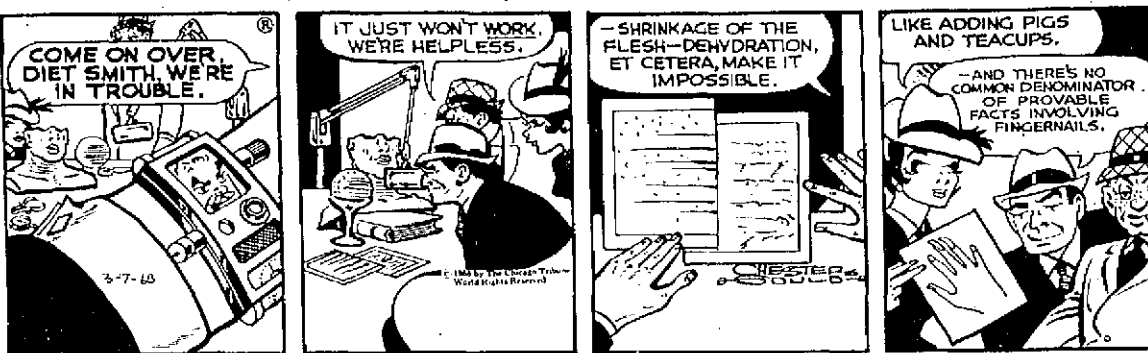

Since the North-South hands are already out of clubs, declarer arranges to also clear both hands of diamonds. He leads the A-K-Q.

West can ruff the last diamond if he wants to, but it would put him on lead with no safe exit card. So let's suppose he discards on the third diamond.

This does not allow him to escape, however, because South now plays a trump to saddle West with the lead. West cashes the A-Q, but is then in a losing position.

He must either return a heart into declarer's A-Q, or play a club which permits South to discard a heart as the club is ruffed in dummy.

West's farsighted diamond play at trick two prevents all this from happening. It forestalls the endplay that would otherwise take place. It stops the declarer stone-cold dead.
